Three Gunboats Reported Sunk by U.S.

Memorial Services

Memorial services were held Tuesday evening in Marshalltown, Iowa for Darwin Judge, one of the last Americans killed in Vietnam. At the end of the services Captain Robert J. Arboleda, Des Moines, U. S. Marine Corps Casualty Officer presented the national colors to Mrs. Judge in the name of the "President of the United States and A Grateful Nation." Cpl. Judge, 19, was killed April 29. (UPI)

'Get The Ship Back,' Say Area Residents

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON — Eighty-one-year-old Nina Stradley of Kingston, who saw her husband, two sons and two son-in-laws go off to war, has been against war all her life—until now. Speaking up about the Cambodian seizure of an American ship, Mrs. Stradley said, "This is the only time I have ever felt we should go in there and fight for our rights."

She is apparently not alone for of 21 persons polled today in man-on-the-street interviews, 16 want the United States to "go in there and get our men and ship back!"

Carolyn Chamberlain, of Kingston, whose husband is a Vietnam veteran, said, "We ought to go in and get it. They (the Communists) can't get away with everything."

"If they take that ship, it won't be safe to take a cruise anymore," volunteered Kingston fireman Jason Ward.

"If we don't we will be 'chicken of the sea', chimed in another fireman, John Hamersley.

Wayne Platt and Chris Cahill agreed with their fellow firefighters with Cahill suggesting that the U.S. rescue its men first, "kidnaping them, if necessary to get them back... then we can negotiate to get the ship back," he said.

Former Mayor Raymond Garraghan was of another turn of mind. Asked what he feels the Americans should do to get the ship back, he replied, "Ask them to give it back to us. They will." Then he questioned whether the U. S. ship was a spy ship. If it was, "I don't know the answer," he said.

"We should be forceful without getting involved militarily," suggested Mrs. Jean Schatzel of Kingston while Barbara Goldstone of Woodstock advocated giving up and getting out of the area.

"We lost that war five or six years ago. That boat shouldn't have been there," she said.

Christus Larios of Hurley, referring to the Asian turn of mind, feels the U.S. has lost so much face in their eyes that unless some definitive action is taken," we better not try to do business in that area of the world anymore. They are not going to believe anything we say or do."

"We should move in and take our ship," County Judge Ray and J. Mino advised.

"Get it back immediately or take whatever military steps are necessary," Kingston attorney Robert MacKinnon declared.

Concerned about the ship's crew members, Cappy Foster, Kingston stockbroker, nevertheless feels "we ought to go over and get it."

A 20-year veteran of the U.S. Air Force, Philip Nacimiento of Lloyd recalled that historically the Communists always take a little bit at a time "always pushing us to the limit."

Likening their actions to those of a child, he suggested that like a parent, we have to take a stand, because they are pushing us to see what we are going to do.

"We should take back our ship, take back our men, even if it takes force," he said.

Thomas Haines, a county employee, advocates active diplomacy before force. Under-sheriff Henry Breitenbach wants the country to go in with all force if necessary and Mrs. John Dent of Town of Ulster, said she would hate to see another Pueblo. "If it is not resolved in a reasonable amount of time, we should go in and get them," she said.

"Go in and get our bonus back," Mrs. Marguerite Derringer of Kingston suggested adding that if she were the wife of a captured serviceman who lost his life, "I'd shoot every congressman who takes power away from the President."

"Send the troops in, the Communists are pushing us to far, concluded Thomas Ekblom of Kingston.

Meanwhile State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) is urging the legislature to condemn piracy and asks the U.S. to demand our men and ship back.

getting the ship returned. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Tuesday there would be no deals with Cambodia. Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen indirectly indicated its release did not appear imminent.

The Mayaguez remained located near a tiny island in the Gulf of Siam about 30 miles off the coast of Cambodia. There was some question whether the 39-man crew was still on board.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he was told by "an old friend of mine, the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet," about the situation. Goldwater, quoted in the Atlanta Constitution, said the Cambodians "have some of the hostages on shore, we know that much."

He also said the officer told him Ford "is ready for strong action."

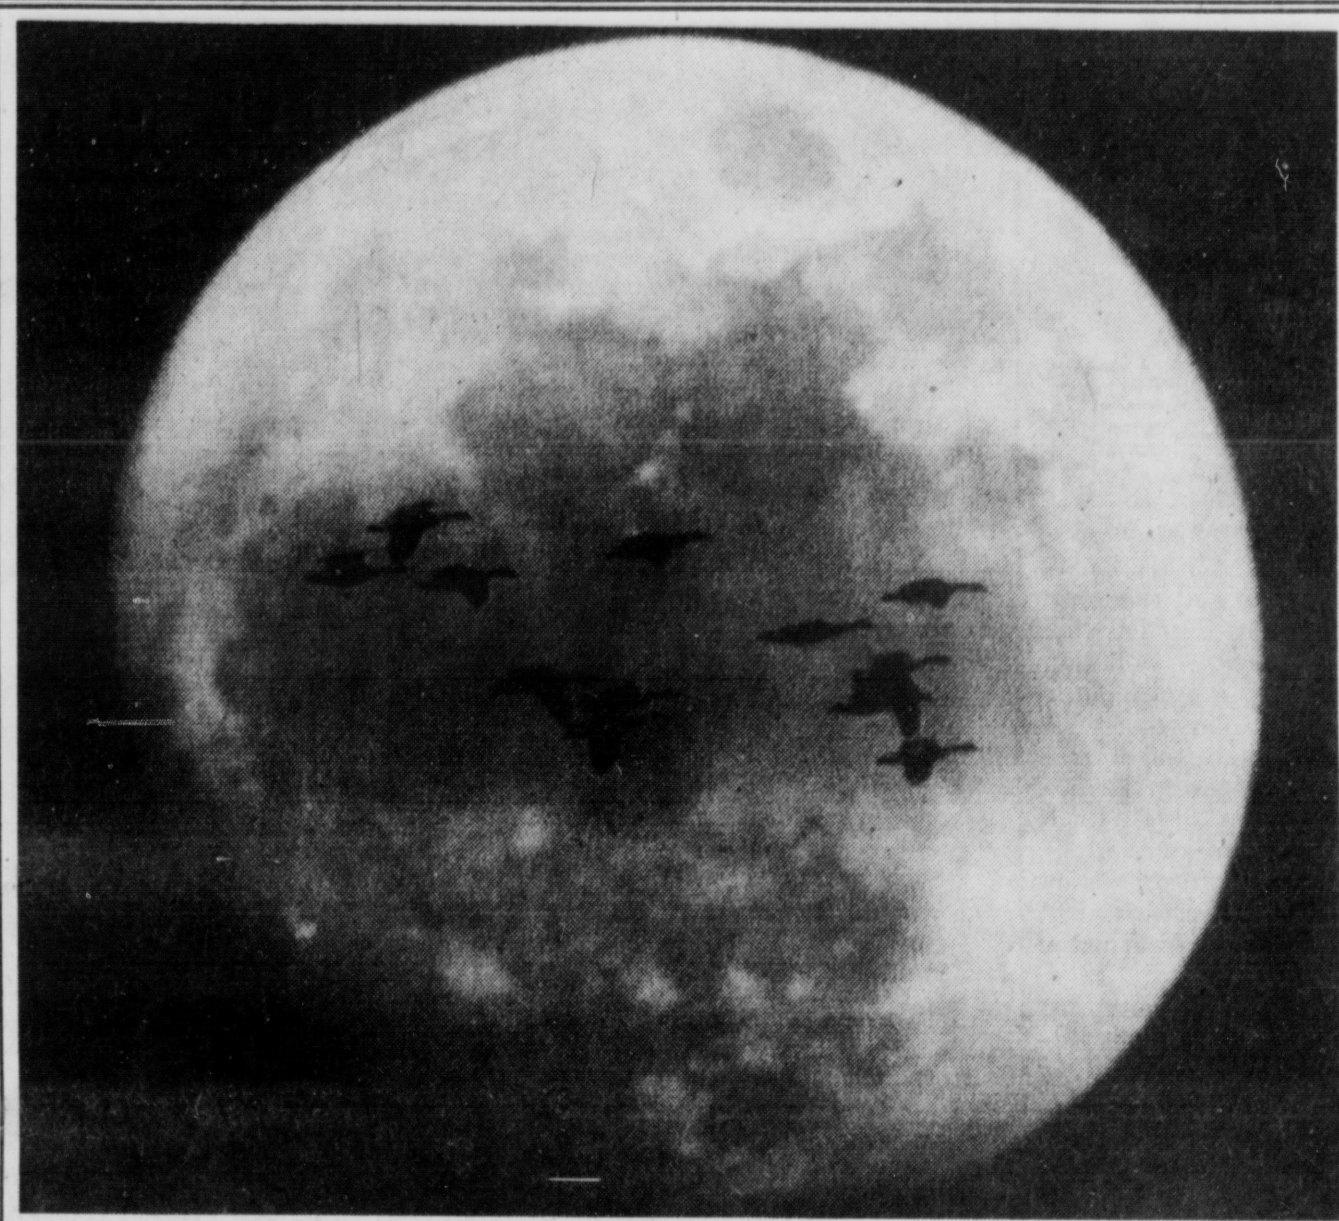

A contingent of at least 800 Marines began arriving at U Tapao before dawn in Thailand (5:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday). Pentagon sources said a total of 1,150 Marines would be flown to the air base. In addition, the aircraft carrier Coral Sea with a half dozen support ships was steaming toward the ship.

"There'll be a lot of artillery around there," said one Pentagon source. They were sent despite Thailand's repeated insistence it would not allow the use of American bases for a confrontation with Cambodia, its neighbor to the east. The Thai government is trying to reach an accommodation with the new Communist government in Phnom Penh.

"We will protest because that (the Marine arrival) is not what we want," said Thai Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj said.

Racing With the Moon

Canadian geese are silhouetted against a full moon as the birds wing northward toward their breeding grounds. The photo was taken recently near Baraboo, Wis. with a 1,250 millimeter lens. The photographer, R. J. Brayer, of Baraboo said it took him two years of trying to get the right elements to make the shot. (UPI)

Panel Wants Local Participation

STAMFORD — The Catskill Study Commission, painfully aware of the furor its preliminary land use recommendations created three months ago, has called for intensive local participation in future planning activities in its final report submitted to the New York State Legislature Tuesday.

The commission, which asks the legislature for a 21-month extension so it can develop formal land use and economic policies for the Catskill region, emphasizes in its 218-page final report that it has not yet formulated "final, definitive programs for land use and the economy." But the commission's initial assessment of the programs it would like to see developed places heavy emphasis on local input and initiative.

The commission points out that, in the area of land use planning, two dominant and opposing viewpoints are expressed throughout the region: the feeling of "topdown" advocates who believe that local government is unable to determine development policies, and the feeling of "home rule" advocates who "view any state or regional land use action as... a grave threat to the integrity of local government."

The commission, obviously hoping for a compromise between those two divergent viewpoints, states that its "proposed land use program outline is a moderate mix of local, county and regional responsibilities which emphasizes the imperative necessity for local and county action. The intent is to encourage localities and counties to do their own planning. After plans and procedures are developed within regional guidelines, local, and county governments would bear significant responsibility for administration and enforcement."

Stans Fined $5,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who was Richard M. Nixon's chief fund raiser in 1972, today was fined the maximum $5,000 but received no jail sentence on a five-count misdemeanor involving campaign finances.

U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith could have sentenced Stans to as much as five years in prison.

"I want to assure your honor I did not intentionally violate any laws," said Stans, standing before the judge with his hands at his side. "What I did I did in good faith and in the belief it was the proper thing to do."

Stans, the third member of Nixon's Cabinet to plead or be convicted of a crime, pleaded guilty to three counts involving violations of the reporting provisions of the 1971 federal campaign law and two counts of nonwillful acceptance of illegal campaign contributions.

and ultimately create a permanent Catskill agency, the commission suggests that localities take some preliminary steps to control land use. Among those "early action" recommendations are: establish a planning board, adopt a building code, develop subdivision regulations, appoint a building inspector, and begin to immediately develop comprehensive land use planning programs. With the exception of the last recommendation, most municipalities in Ulster County have already taken one or more of the suggested steps.

He said he and the White House are aware of statements in Congress and elsewhere urging military retaliation but the government will make its decision according to its own study of possible actions.

"The ship apparently was carrying military cargo, but we don't think there were any weapons. We have indications the cargo included such things as PX supplies. But we consider the incident a seizure of a ship conducting peaceful trade in international waters."

Kissinger declined to comment on what consequences might result from the ship seizure.

He said he and the White House are aware of statements in Congress and elsewhere urging military retaliation but the government will make its decision according to its own study of possible actions.

Fees For Health Services

KINGSTON — "We have been subsidizing people for too long," Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto said today in announcing that fees are now being charged by Ulster County for many of its health services and the granting of permits.

Among the permits for which fees will be imposed are: food service operations, migrant and farm labor camps, swimming pools and bathing beaches, private sanitary landfills and refuse collections.

The proposal which was unanimously approved by the Ulster County Board of Health and which has state approval will mean an annual revenue of about $40,000 Dr. Dutto estimates.

He said that most other counties in the state charge fees for services and permits and that newcomers to the community are surprised when they find that there have been no fees. He told of one New York City man who came to Ulster to open a restaurant and automatically came to pay for a permit and was astonished that there was no requirement to pay.

In order to impose the fees it was necessary to amend the county's sanitary code.

The fee schedule is as follows:

Sewage disposal system construction—$100 for a daily flow of 10,000 gallons or more; $50 for a daily flow between 999 gallons but under 10,000 gallons; $5 for daily flows under 1,000 gallons.

Refuse disposal and collection—$25 a year for one truck operations; $25 a year for one truck plus $10 each for every additional truck.

Private sludge disposal—$50 a year.

Private sanitary landfill—$50 a year.

Food service operations, $15 a year.

Operation of temporary residences—$50 a year for those having no recreational bathing facilities; $100 for all other temporary residences.

Farm labor camp operations or migrant camps, $100 a year.

Swimming pool or bathing beach operations, $25 a year.

Every person requesting collection and testing of a water sample will pay a fee of $5 in advance.

For every test and/or inspection of a radiation equipment unit a fee of $10 will be paid by the owner. There are 145 units in the county.

The rules and regulations are in effect now.

Mr. Leonore Adin of the Ulster County Health Department will be in charge of the permit system, the health commissioner said.

'Somber News' for Seniors at Ellenville Board Session

ELLENVILLE

If graduation ceremonies were held today for the 125 seniors at Ellenville High School, 43 would not graduate.

This somber news was introduced at Tuesday night's board of education meeting by Superintendent James D. Evergetis. "I have been alarmed during the past six months at the number of seniors in the school who appear not to be graduating," he stated.

Of that 43, about one-third of the class, the superintendent said there were "maybe 20 who could make it if they really put their minds to it," but he didn't hold out much hope for the rest to get their diplomas next month.

Evergetis cited as the primary reason their lack of attendance in classes, and attendant lack of work. "I would not be surprised if there were 70 or 80 on that platform instead of 125," he commented.

In following that problem up, he said he had "every confidence the teaching staff has met its obligations," adding, "I don't think the teachers should reduce their standards by passing them (the students) in June." He said he had "not had the best response" from many parents of these students who had been notified.

In another unrelated action, the board reversed its previous position in laying off two music teachers after two petitions with a reported 600 names begged that they be retained. The economy move was reversed, by a vote of 6-3, and the two teachers will be retained. They are Robert Oehme and Bruce Bellinger. A large contingent of teachers was on hand in the audience, and applauded the resolution, introduced by Morris Posner.

The board also:

- Tabled action on the proposed 1975-76 school budget for about a week to further review the $5,242,603 proposal, which is up for voter approval June 4. Board member Lee Augustine pointed out that voters passed last year's budget on the first ballot for the first time in ten years. This year's budget increase is smaller than last.

- The board commended retiring teacher Miss Jennie L. McDowell, who has taught in Napanoch and Ellenville for the past 54 years.

- Approved a new award for students of police science, to be called the Jeffrey Kelly Memorial Award of $200 and given by the Ellenville Police Cadets.

- Approved the appointment of a Spanish speaking election inspector for the June 4 voting to aid the Spanish community at the polls.

- Voted to approve a study to let bids on a new high school track, with Diachisin Associates to make the study for a $500 fee. It is estimated a new track, possibly a synthetic all weather pavement, will cost in the neighborhood of $35,000.

A report from school attorney Benjamin Lonstein stated that "five or six other school boards" have joined Ellenville in its foster children case. There are about 100 foster children in the district of 2,500 students. He also said he was going to recommend an appeal in the Hill case.

A resigning industrial arts teacher who has been with the district for six years, Stanley Engelman, read a statement indicting the board for formulating an "educationally stifling atmosphere" in killing his work experience program, in effect for three years, and shifting it to minor status through BOCES.

The nine candidates for three seats on the board this June drew lots to determine place on the ballot. Reading from top to bottom they will be: Carolyn Passmore; Irving Esrig; Lee Augustine; Fred Radl; Dr. Michael Tennenbaum; Audrey Green; Patricia Peters; Sam Lewis; and Madeleine Marshall.

'Non-Essential' U.S. Personnel Leaving Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Neutralist Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma called his coalition cabinet into session today for a crucial meeting that may show whether the Communist Pathet Lao plans to seize control of the government.

With the Pathet Lao steadily increasing its military and political hold on Laos, authoritative sources at the U.S. Embassy said a process of thinning out "non-essential" American personnel and dependents was beginning.

Foremost on the agenda at today's cabinet session was the resignation of four rightist ministers last weekend, an event which touched off an exodus from the country of other officials and military leaders whose ouster had been demanded by the Pathet Lao.

It was expected replacements for the departed ministers would be discussed and that the discussion will likely show whether the Pathet Lao want to continue to observe the form of 1973 peace agreement granting key ministerial posts to non-Communists.

All political and diplomatic sources here believe that the complete collapse of the rightist structure put the Communists in a position to dictate future government policies and put their own men in the cabinet.

Leftist-oriented demonstrations continued around the capital.

In the latest demonstration, military police cadets remained in control of a camp north of town which they seized Tuesday. The cadets held some of their officers hostage, demanding the resignation of 10 officials they charge with corruption, the investigation of others and the inclusion of "political" subjects in their training.

Many civil servants remained away from their jobs today despite an appeal from Souvanna that they go back to work. The prime minister issued an announcement saying that government workers and military officers who do not report for duty by Thursday would face dismissal.

Workers at the finance ministry staged a demonstration Tuesday demanding the firing of some senior officials and promotion of the Pathet Lao Deputy Minister Baussabang Souvanavong to fill the vacant ministership. A Pathet Lao representative has already been named acting defense minister.

Viet Cong Willing, But . . .

By UPI

The new Communist government in South Vietnam says it is willing to establish diplomatic relations with the United States but wants Washington to make the first move.

UPI correspondent Alan Dawson reported Tuesday from Saigon that Viet Cong officials said the government would be willing to accept a small U.S. mission in the capital.

But the officials said the United States must agree to refrain from interfering in South Vietnamese affairs.

Dawson said the officials told reporters in private talks that the new government was unwilling to make the first overture and the establishment of diplomatic ties must begin in Washington.

Britain, meanwhile, recognized the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government as the legal government of South Vietnam and said it was prepared to establish diplomatic relations.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan said Tuesday his government intended to reopen its embassy in Saigon as soon as possible. He said Viet Cong officials would be welcome at the closed South Vietnamese embassy in London.

Dawson quoted PRG officials as saying all North Vietnamese troops would return home once total security was established in South Vietnam.

Some have already begun the trip back, they said.

The North Vietnamese regulars who provided much of the initial security during the first days of the takeover are slowly being replaced by smaller forces of Viet Cong troops, Dawson said.

Mideast Tension Up, Border Clashes Mount

By UPI

Israeli and Arab gunners duelled across the Lebanese border today in the third consecutive day of incidents along the tense frontier.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the fighting began when gunners in Lebanon fired mortar shells at the Israeli frontier settlement of Shtula.

A command spokesman said Israeli troops patrolling the border fired back at the Arab mortar positions. There were no reported casualties in the fighting.

The spokesman did not say whether Lebanese troops or Palestinian guerrillas were involved in the clash across the frontier.

Israeli ground forces crossed into southern Lebanese Monday and Tuesday, raiding frontier villages and seizing Arabs accused of helping the guerrillas.

A military spokesman in Beirut said the Israeli raiders blew up a house Tuesday and kidnapped three persons. He said the Israelis blew up a restaurant and took five captives Monday.

—Another Hanoi broadcast said "thousands" of Vietnamese who tried to flee the country had been picked up and returned. It said many were persons who had fled to the offshore islands of Con Son in the South China Sea and Phu Quoc in the Gulf of Siam.

—The 100,000th South Vietnamese refugee arrived on Guam Tuesday. Officials on the Pacific island said the swelling number of refugees have caused water supply problems on the drought-stricken island.

Checking for Mines

Laotian troops use mine detector to check cadets' barracks in wake of three-day holiday weekend that saw resignation and flight from the country of resigned pro-American rightist ministers and fired loyalist generals as well as a large number of other senior military officers. (UPI)

House Clears Way For Refugee Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has cleared the way for passage of $405 million for the resettlement of South Vietnamese refugees. But officials reported the resettlement pace has slowed to a trickle because of red tape and the dwindling of existing funds.

The House was expected to vote late today on legislation that would authorize and appropriate the funds, $102 million less than the amount requested by President Ford May 6.

The Senate, where Democratic leader Sen. Mike Mansfield has stated the financing should be given careful study rather than quick passage, appeared to be in no rush to act, despite administration warnings that funds and food were rapidly running out.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., predicted the Appropriations Subcommittee on Immigration and Migration would not act on the legislation until late next week. The measure then would have to be acted upon by the full committee before it could be taken up by the full Senate.

Proxmire acknowledged that the refugees had difficult living conditions at staging centers, particularly in crowded facilities at Guam. But he cautioned against any rapid action on the refugee resettlement legislation, declaring that the Pentagon could come

Higher Tuition at UCCC

STONE RIDGE
Students attending Ulster County Community College will pay higher tuition beginning Sept. 1.

The college's board of trustees Tuesday night voted to increase fulltime tuition for state residents from $600 to $650 for two semesters. Tuition for part-time students also was increased from $22 to $23 a credit hour per semester.

Trustees also voted to increase the full-time tuition for out-of-staters from $1,200 to $1,300 for two semesters. Part-time tuition for non-New Yorkers also was raised from $44 to $46 per credit hour. All increases are subject to approval by the State University Board of Trustees.

Tuition is being increased because the cost of operating the college has increased because of inflation, negotiated salary increases, and the energy crisis, trustees said. President Robert T. Brown said that with the tuition being increased, the college "will make every effort to advise students of financial assistance which might be available to them."

Major sources of financial assistance are grants from the state's Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) for eligible full-time state residents and the federally funded Basic Education Opportunity Grant program. Other sources include loans from the New York

Higher Education Assistance Corp. (HEAC) and the National Direct Student Loan Program.

Limited funds for students who have demonstrated an exceptional need for financial assistance comes through the federally funded Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants and the state's Educational Opportunity Program. In addition, part-time employment can be arranged at the college and coordinated with a student's academic schedule.

Students wanting information on various forms of financial assistance available to them are asked to call the Financial Aids Office, 687-7621, Extension 44.

Cutler Retires From Post

KINGSTON
The retirement of Herbert Cutler from his Senate House post effective June 1 has been announced by Senate House Historic Site Manager James P. Gold. Also retiring July 1 will be Ottilia M. Riccobono a member of the Senate House Museum staff.

Cutler served the Senate House for six years as site superintendent until last December when Gold was appointed by the state as new manager of the Senate House. Since then Cutler has been working with Gold.

The retirement decisions prompted Gold to say this week that he deeply regrets both Cutler's and Miss Riccobono's decisions but can well understand their feeling and wishes.

"The Senate House and Museum will be losing two very dedicated and knowledgeable individuals, and I sincerely hope they continue their active roles in supporting the Senate House historic site in their years of retirement," he said.

Gold's appointment late last year took the Senate House Association by surprise and it protested to Gov. Hugh Carey. The association, which wanted Cutler retained in his post as head of the Senate House and Museum said it was unaware that the state required civil service status for the position.

The state apparently had been planning staff transitions at all of its 35 historic sites calling for the creation of managerial posts, which under civil service, require a master degree with specific museum training.

If Cutler, who has a degree in landscape architecture, could have qualified educationally, he would have been able to compete with the 14 persons who qualified for the Kingston post.

Cutler was urged however to stay on at the Senate House and Museum by Frederick L. Rath Jr., deputy commissioner of the Division for Historic Preservation, who said that with both Gold and Cutler on the job, inventories could be completed, that the preservation of artifacts that need care would be assured and that they could work with a state collection team.

Cutler has received high praise from the Senate House Association for his capable work in the field of community contact, education and allied museum work.

Planning Board Recommendations

OLIVE
While the Ulster County Planning Board has approved a proposed zoning ordinance for the Town of Olive it has also made what it terms some "binding recommendations."

The planners said that they agree with the town's expressed fear that recreational use of the Ashokan Reservoir would promote honky-tonk commercialism and recommends that the commercial strip along Route 28 be reduced to locations in Shokan and the vicinity of the Rotron plant entrance.

The planning board also recommends that the town be more selective in designating areas in hamlets for business.

Regarding residential policies, the planners fear that Olive's large lot requirements might be seen as an attempt to exclude certain segments of society because there is no provision for lots smaller than one acre. There is also no provision for housing opportunities for dwellings of less than 600 square feet in floor area.

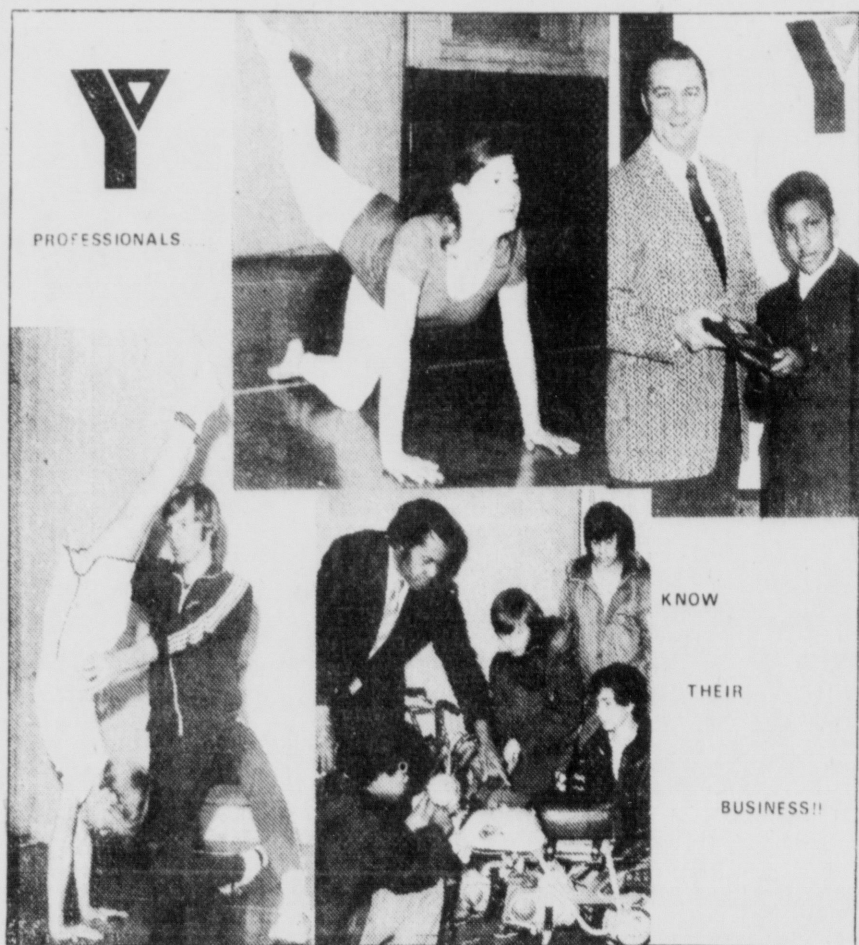

"This might well jeopardize the entire ordinance," they point out because "the town allows any type of highway business to be constructed on only one-half acre, yet requires one acre for any residence."

The planning board recommends instead a reduction of minimum lot size where central water or sewer are provided which would allow lower cost standard housing and the reduction of minimum floor area from 600 to 300 feet. A reduction of lot area if properly approved water and sewer systems were installed would only be practical in the one acre zone, they said.

Although "happy" that the town allows mobile homes, the planners feel that the 600-square-foot minimum floor size discriminates against the smaller, less expensive units which might be needed for small families. They suggest a 300-foot minimum.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

May 15, 1775:

Now returned to Philadelphia, Benjamin Franklin writes to Edmund Burke, a member of Parliament and one of the champions of the colonial cause, about Lexington and Concord: "You will see by the Papers that General Gage... drew the Sword, and began the War. His troops made a vigorous Retreat, 20 Miles in three Hours, scarce to be paralleled in History: The feeble Americans, who pelted them all the Way, could scarce keep up with them. All People here feel themselves much obliged by your Endeavours to serve them. I hear your proposed Resolves were negatived by a great Majority [on March 22, by a vote of 270-78]; which was denying the most notorious Truths; and a kind of rational Lying, of which [the members of the majority] may be convicted by their own Records."

Uncle Sap

The seizure of the USS Pueblo back in 1968 by the North Koreans was a bitter pill Americans swallowed because we were told it was best not to rush into military action. This nation ended up making a public apology to the North Koreans in order to retrieve the crew. Now a second bit of piracy—this time by cocky Cambodians who have seen a humiliated United States forced out of most of Southeast Asia—finds one of our merchant ships boarded and confiscated on the open seas, and another crew held captive.

We Americans are now looking to President Ford to see what action will be taken. As of this writing all we have witnessed is the President deploring the situation as an act of piracy, while Secretary of State Henry Kissinger urges action confined to the diplomatic front. The first concrete move to sustain our national honor was the landing of an 1,100-Marine unit at Thailand in a show of force. But if the Cambodians don't listen to reason, and continue delighting in tweaking Uncle Sam's nose, more than a show of force will be necessary.

A Freeman sampling of area opinion shows sentiment running strong for a decisive military action to get back the merchant vessel. It's about time the United States discarded its role as Good Neighbor Sam, which too often has been interpreted as Uncle Sap.

"Sir, what was it like when you first saw light at the end of the tunnel?"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—The swift collapse of South Vietnam badly surprised President Ford who was misled, according to White House sources, by the national intelligence estimates.

These estimates are supposed to provide the President with the best possible analysis of what is likely to happen.

He was assured, for example, that the South Vietnamese army would be able to hold off the advancing Communists for several months. Even after the Saigon defenses began to crack, the national intelligence estimate predicted that Hanoi would negotiate with Saigon and form a coalition government.

The beleaguered Central Intelligence Agency was the first, say our sources, to warn that a Communist victory was imminent. The CIA recommended that the United States use its leverage to persuade the Saigon leaders to form a "peace government," which could negotiate a truce.

This would have given the United States more time to arrange an orderly and dignified evacuation. The CIA was overruled, however, upon the advice of U. S. Ambassador Graham Martin who called upon President Nguyen Van Thieu instead to form a war cabinet supposedly to stiffen the resistance.

Although the Joint Chiefs correctly predicted more than two years ago that President Thieu would not survive and that the Communists would win the final struggle for Vietnam, the Pentagon badly misjudged the South Vietnamese army's ability to hold the line.

The Pentagon estimate was that the South Vietnamese would battle the Communists to a standstill along the approaches to Saigon. The only exception was the Air Force intelligence chief, Maj. Gen. George Keegan, who warned that the defenses would collapse.

It was the Pentagon's assessment that the South Vietnamese infantry divisions on the line were as good as any U. S. division. Then why did they buckle? From the secret cables, here is a thumbnail analysis:

President Thieu was shaken by the capture of Ban Me Thout in the Central Highlands last March. He concluded that his troops were spread too thin and ordered a strategic withdrawal.

But Thieu was indecisive. He would issue orders, then cancel them. He couldn't decide where to make a stand.

Finally, the commander of the second Military Region, after a meeting with Thieu, returned to his men and announced: "We're pulling out, tonight."

They not only abandoned their heavy equipment but left the First Military Region outflanked. What was supposed to be an orderly withdrawal, turned into a pellmell rush for the coast. Panic spread, with every man for himself, until the hasty retreat became a total rout.

JACKIE'S DIVORCE: We recently reported that the late Aristotle Onassis had taken tentative steps to start divorce proceedings against his wife Jacqueline after a seven-year marriage that was founded upon an advance $3 million settlement. The New York Times published the same report on page one.

Onassis' daughter Christina, who inherited the keys to his billion-dollar financial kingdom, has now put out a statement denying that her father contemplated divorce.

Sources close to the family say she was tired of seeing her father's name dragged through the headlines. She also may have wished to stroke Jackie's ruffled feathers to prevent nasty litigation over the estate.

But we checked out the divorce report carefully. Here are the facts:

The late shipping tycoon's closest associates say his outlook changed after the death of his only son, Alexander, in a 1973 plane crash.

Before the crash, Alexander had mentioned the need for new

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—When President Ford used the hoary politician's plea for help to tell multi-millionaire San Francisco industrialist David Packard that "I need you" for the 1976 campaign, Packard's quick affirmative response gave the President his first major conquest among party luminaries having past associations with Ronald Reagan.

The private conversation took place during the President's Easter vacation in Palm Springs early last month. No specific role for Packard, a former Deputy Secretary of Defense, was even mentioned. But he could end up as the campaign's national finance chairman.

Mr. Ford was strongly advised earlier this spring by a senior White House aide to put a quiet arm on party conservatives—asking their support in 1976—before Reagan makes any formal move toward the 1976 Republican nomination. The reason: with Reagan reluctant to cut off his lucrative speech and radio fees by becoming an avowed candidate, the President could steal a march on his potential rival.

In addition, the President's old friend, Clark MacGregor, Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign manager, strongly advised Mr. Ford several months ago to line up Packard.

Packard, a chief strategist and fund-raiser for Houston Flournoy's unsuccessful campaign for governor of California last year, brought leading Reagan fat-cats into that campaign. While Packard was nev-parts for the plane, but the old man had held back the money. Associates believe that Onassis, therefore, secretly blamed himself for his son's death.

He desperately tried to establish that someone else had caused the crash by offering a fabulous $500,000 reward for proof that the plane had been sabotaged. But there were no takers.

Thereafter, he became increasingly impatient with Jackie's overspending and other aggravations. One day, he blurted angrily to a close friend: "Sonuva — —, I'm goin to divorce her!"

He asked his associate, John Meyer, to recommend a private detective to gather evidence for the divorce.

Onassis also "had lawyers working on it in Greece and in the United States," one intimate told us. "It had been informally determined that the Greek Orthodox Church would allow him to break off the marriage on grounds of simple but definite incompatibility."

At the time of his death, however, Onassis had not hired a private detective and had not made a final commitment to get the divorce.

Bullet Proof?

Inside Report

Story of a Packard and a Ford

a member of the Reagan political palace guard, the Reagan-Packard alliance nevertheless flourished during the Flournoy primary campaign, leading some Reagan operatives to hope that Packard would wind up as a Reagan-for-President man in 1976. The President's initiative has now squelched all such hopes.

Packard's closest link to the Ford administration is his friend and former boss, ex-Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, who has agreed to help in the Ford presidential campaign, but only part-time.

A footnote: Selection of Dean Burch to head the Ford campaign planning group brought few cheers from Republican National Committee members who resented his speech to them last summer as a Nixon White House aide haranguing loyal Republicans to join the struggle against impeachment. Nor does Burch have much standing among the conservatives inclining toward Reagan against Mr. Ford.

Since Burch is distrusted by Republican liberals and delegate-hunting in presidential campaigns is not his long suit, his major value may be his enduring relationship as friend and protégé of Sen. Barry Goldwater. Burch's appointment is likely to bolster Goldwater's present tendency to oppose a Reagan challenge against the President.

BOB STRAUSS'S BUDDY

The onslaught against Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss from the McGovernite wing of the party, orchestrated by an aide to Sen.

George S. McGovern, has lost some steam because of a letter of fulsome praise for Strauss from none other than McGovern himself.

The letter was triggered by increasingly poisonous comments about Strauss in the regular newsletter of the super-liberal Democratic Planning Group (DPG), funded mainly by leftist labor unions. The McGovern connection: Alan Baron, founder and indefatigable sparkplug of the DPG, is top political aide on McGovern's Senate staff.

So, in early March, when the DPG newsletter gleefully reported the prospect of Strauss being indicted for technical violations of federal campaign laws, Strauss angrily telephoned McGovern to find out whether he agreed with Baron. What followed was a March 12 letter from McGovern asserting he had instructed Baron to perform his DPG role on his own time and disavowing any responsibility for the DPG newsletter. "I do not want you to think for one minute that the statements of the Democratic Planning Group are either cleared with me or originate with me or are in any way initiated by me," McGovern wrote Strauss. "... I have seldom even read the newsletters."

McGovern next laid out the enormities for Strauss: "I think you have worked with dedication and full commitment in the service of the Democratic party as our national chairman. You have always been kind and responsive in relations with me... I wish you every success in your efforts to strengthen our party."

Although Strauss has sent copies of McGovern's letter to key party figures, Baron has not let up. The most recent DPG letter continues the attack, reporting with obvious dismay that the statute of limitations may shield Strauss from federal prosecution.

A footnote: The voluble Baron has told friends that McGovern had to disavow him and the DPG to keep peace with Strauss. Baron claims he not only favored the letter but actually drafted it for the Senator.

Let JFK Rest In Peace

The forensic nitpickers will not allow John F. Kennedy to rest. They disinter his body for profit, magnifying what they call the "one bullet theory" and why the President's head flew backward as his brain exploded, if, as they argue, he was hit from the front.

It's a shabby business and I regret that I permitted myself to be dragged into rebutting the specious arguments of the lightweights. I surmise that half of America cannot believe that the death of our handsome President was carried off by one young man and a cheap rifle.

Recently, Lyndon Johnson was resurrected as a doubter. I had plenty of opportunity to discuss the assassination with the President because it was he who opened all the government doors for me to write a book called, "The Day Kennedy Was Shot."

Johnson said that he "surmised" if Lee Harvey Oswald had any outside help it had to come from Cuba. He had no knowledge, no evidence to buttress his suspicion, but he knew that Oswald tried twice to get a visa to Mexico and thence to Cuba. Both countries turned him down.

Oswald was disenchanted with Communism. In Moscow, he expected, as an ex-U.S. Marine, to be acclaimed a people's hero. The Russians put him in a mental institution. The best they offered him was a factory job in Minsk, where he met and married Marina.

Gordon Shanklin, head of the Dallas bureau of the F.B.I., is probably the best-informed man on Lee Harvey Oswald in the country. Mr. Shanklin had an F.B.I. man in the local Dallas Communist cell.

The Reds in Dallas did not want Oswald to join, and Oswald scorned them. "I am not a Communist," he told friends. "I'm a Marxist. There's a difference."

There is. Marxism is a tightly disciplined practice in which the party and the state are all—the individual is nothing. Communism as practiced in Russia, Yugoslavia and Cuba, is radical socialism, nothing more.

On TV, Geraldo Rivera referred to me as a supporter of the Warren Commission Report. Untrue. They spent a year questioning witnesses. I spent 4½ years pinpointing everything that happened every minute of that day in Dallas. I support my findings.

Cartha DeLoach, assistant director of the F.B.I. and James Rowley, then chief of the Secret Service, permitted me to see their files and to question any agent at any time. They had nothing to hide, except their shame of losing a President.

What a beautiful runaway bestseller I would have had if I could have shown that someone other than Lee Harvey Oswald was involved. When I offered to debate District Attorney Jim Garrison of New Orleans about his silly theories, he refused to respond.

Nor could I find evidence that Oswald hated Kennedy. To an unbalanced young man who had failed at everything, the Presidential parade passing his factory meant no more than an opportunity for imperishable fame.

He built his fortress of cartons on the sixth floor. At lunch, when the schoolbook clerks were out front waiting for the parade, he was leaning on a 6th floor window sill. The first shot, through a V-shaped elm tree, hit the street near the car. It broke into flashing fragments.

Mrs. Donald Baker heard the shot, saw the spray and ducked. On the far side of the car, James Tague stood beside his automobile a block away and felt as though his cheek had been stung. He was bleeding in a half dozen parts of his face.

Bill Greer was the President's driver. He told me he was doing 11 m.p.h. when he heard a crack. In such circumstances, he had been trained to step on the accelerator. His foot slipped and he hit the brake. The car slewed and slowed.

There was no tree between Oswald and the car now. He slipped the bolt, took careful aim, and caught the President in the right shoulder strap muscles. The flesh only slowed the bullet, traveling at 1,904 feet per second. Governor Connally, turning to see if Kennedy was hurt, caught the tumbling steel in the back. It splintered ribs, went through the wrist on his thigh, and into the leg.

The third shot was corrective. It caught Kennedy behind the right ear, exploded 5½ inches of his skull into the air and died behind the left eye. There is no way the shot could have come from anywhere but behind and above the President. There was no shot from front or side.

I would suggest that Mrs. Onassis and Senator Kennedy could appoint a committee of forensic, nonpolitical experts to go over all the X-rays, all the 35 millimeter photos and movies, and give the American people a report which would permit John F. Kennedy to sleep in peace...

Lions Thanks

Editor, The Freeman:
Let me please take this opportunity to thank all the many people who contributed and supported the 1975 Kingston Lions Exposition and made it the success it was.
I am very proud to be part of this organization and all its members. We work hard to make this a show that will be different and appealing. This is our 28th Expo and each year it gets more difficult to come up with a winner.
The motto of Lions International is "WE SERVE" and we of the Kingston Lions Club are proud of our heritage and look forward to serving the residents of the Kingston Area.

Excellent Reporting

Editor, Te Freeman:
This letter is to compliment the Daily Freeman on the excellent reporting by your Lynn Mulvaney of the hearing sponsored by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, and chaired by Assemblyman Arthur Kramer, head of the Committee on Corporations, Authorities, and Commissions, which was held at Ulster Community College on Tuesday night.

Ms Mulvaney had to get the essence of protests and suggestions voiced by 30 speakers, incensed by abuses being perpetrated by the public utilities and the Public Service Commission's failure to "regulate public utilities for the benefit of the public." She succeeded remarkably in informing your readers by encapsulating and summarizing the gist of the statements made. In fairness to Central Hudson, Ms Mulvaney gave two paragraphs to the double-talk uttered by their spokesman.

I take my hat off to a newspaper that employs such a capable reporter, especially since the Fourth Estate has an obligation to protect the public by keeping it fully informed.

Yours truly,

A Plug for Fitness

Editor, The Freeman:
We are supposed to exercise. It shouldn't merely be a hobby, it should be a way of life to save our lives. Sure, a lot of us work hard and think that's sufficient. If isn't! Tennis is a great form of exercise but now it's a boom and the courts are jammed and the balls sell for the ridiculous price of a dollar each. Jogging proved a fad, bicycling was in for a while, fishing gives plenty of fresh air but little muscle work.

Watching Catfish Hunter on TV is great entertainment while the beer goes down but playing is more beneficial. Most men who are 35 think they are too old to perform. So they pull up the pack of cigarettes and the beer and they watch a farce like the recent Foreman against the clowns show.

It would be great for the entire family if more people put on the tennis shoes and shorts instead of the big bellies and television sets.
I'm not anti-TV, it's just that there is too much garbage on it. The other night I watched a "Rose Kennedy Special." That was a fine film but I bet more people watched "The Rookies." I am no one to tell people what to watch on TV but I'm only trying to show that garbage does exist and a lot of people collect it in their heads.

Physical education is mandatory in schools but when people get older they seem to feel that they don't need it. I believe TV has a lot to do with the unfit of this country. Before TV people worked harder and longer hours. Easier times have made it harder on our health.

Sincerely,
GEORGE MONTOMERY
Rosendale, N.Y.

Open Letter

The following is an open letter addressed to State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn in Albany:

Your stand regarding the engagement of communist Angela Davis as a speaker at the State College at New Paltz is commendable and supported 100 percent by our organization. It is refreshing in these times, of liberal politicians and an apathetic citizenry to hear publicly from an elected official that he actually stands on a principle.

It is our belief that freedom of speech is not an issue. The issue is the overthrow of our government through revolution, the term to be used as defined by "Webster" is treason. Angela Davis, a self-proclaimed communist, is traveling throughout the country agitating the students, creating an environment for violence.

The institutions utilized in her bid for revolution are the tax-supported colleges. The fee she receives does not come directly from the tuition but from a mandatory student activity fee paid by each student. The communist party seeks to destroy this college system which furnishes the sounding board for this bid for violence.

Many citizens are naive enough to think, that the First Amendment includes an individual's right to promote and motivate the violent overthrow of this country.

It is not the intent of the Constitution to destroy itself or to eliminate the power of the electorate to effect changes through legislative means. Unfortunately many of our fellow legislators sound like students of a foreign ideology rather than representatives of a free, educated and self-determining society. Therefore, we look forward to your continued leadership as an elected official, truly representing the intent of our system of government.

Foster Child Week

Editor, The Freeman:
National Action for Foster Children Week is May 18-25, 1975.

Although there are 350,000 children in this country in foster care, they are America's forgotten minority. They represent all ages, races, religions, and creeds.

Most foster youngsters come from broken homes. Frequently, it is not their fault or the fault of their parents. There are circumstances beyond their control. Illness, unemployment, mental or emotional breakdown in the home may require that a child be placed in temporary foster care. Sometimes, the home disruption is so severe that the child requires an adoptive home or a permanent foster family.

Foster parents and social agencies are doing their best to provide the needed help. But they, in turn, need our help, because they can't do it alone.

Throughout the country, on both the state and local level, there will be programmed activities calling attention to the needs of foster children and what is being done on their behalf. These efforts are spearheaded by the National Action for Foster Children and local Action Committees.

Our local Action for Foster Children committee is made up of citizens who have found that there is much that can be done on behalf of our community's foster children. They have learned that the major problems are lack of public awareness and lack of adequate funding. Many child-care agencies have responsibility for too many foster children, and, therefore, they cannot provide all the services they know are necessary.

These include a decent education and proper nutrition, clothing, medical and dental care, among others, to augment the loving care they already receive from their foster parents.

We believe that citizens can help the dedicated foster parents who are raising America's future citizens.

We like the idea of citizen participation. It is part of our democratic tradition. The national slogan of the Program is: "You don't have to be a foster parent to help a foster child." How appropriate!

Letter from Nam: the De-Americanization of Saigon

By LEON DANIEL
The writer is United Press International's News Editor for Asia, a veteran of reporting the fighting in Indochina. He and four other UPI news and picture correspondents were in Saigon when it fell to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong on April 30, and they are continuing to file dispatches from there. This report was written on May 1 but its transmission from Saigon was delayed for several days.

SAIGON (UPI) — On May Day the people of South Vietnam and their Communist conquerors experienced their first full day of peace after 30 years of war.

As I walked through the lobby on that Thursday morning, hotel employees were making Viet Cong flags.

I essayed a tentative grin at the first Viet Cong soldier I passed on the street and was relieved when he grinned back. Tu Do Street, the garish half-mile strip of bars that had catered to thousands of American GIs, was littered with uniforms discarded by government soldiers as Communist forces moved into the city.

A few foreigners were having ham and eggs at the Caravelle Hotel, which flew a Viet Cong flag, as did just about every other building in town.

Radios played traditional Vietnamese music on tapes brought here by the Communists. If the people of Saigon missed the classical, hard rock and country and western music played by American radio, they probably did not say so out loud.

The victorious soldiers were everywhere, many of them unarmed. Some carried cameras. People gathered around them to talk and examine their weapons.

The stands on Nguyen Hue Boulevard that on Wednesday morning were selling black market goods from the American commissary had disappeared, but on a side street some were already back in business.

It was possible to buy black-market American and foreign cigarettes from sidewalk vendors. Beggars were gone from the streets. South Vietnamese veterans, some with missing limbs, watched silently as the victors took charge of the city.

A few former bar girls talked with the Viet Cong soldiers but they had exchanged western costumes for Vietnamese-style pajamas. Some had cropped their flowing tresses. Even without makeup, they were pretty enough to turn the eye of the most dedicated revolutionary.

At the Palace Hotel, which in Saigon still passes for posh, some foreigners were breakfasting at the rooftop restaurant. The management said the swimming pool was still open for anyone who wanted to use it.

In front of the National Assembly a Buddhist group demonstrated with banners that said "Support the National Liberation Front." The Brink, a sturdy structure in the heart of town where Americans stayed, was looted after they abandoned it, as had other buildings used by the Americans, including the U.S. Embassy.

A Viet Cong flag flew within the walled embassy compound where Ambassador Graham Martin and senior members of his staff waited on the roof Wednesday morning for the helicopter that flew them out, leaving behind some Vietnamese who worked for them.

The building where foreign journalists had waited for buses to take them to Tan Son Nhut airbase for evacuation had been looted, too.

Generally, it appeared, the looting had been confined to abandoned buildings and occurred before the Viet Cong arrived.

Viet Cong soldiers were at the British Embassy. The huge Shell Oil building also had been taken over.

Wrecked tanks, trucks and jeeps of both sides stood where they had been knocked out, mostly in the vicinity of the airport, which took heavy shelling and bombing during the final hours of the war.

A Frenchman stood in front of his house, which displayed the tricolor, and watched a mile-long file of Viet Cong moving toward the air base, already heavily secured by the victors.

The soldiers carried backpacks and moved quickly along in their "Ho Chi Minh sandals," footwear fashioned from rubber tires. They did not appear tempted by American-made boots left in the streets by government soldiers.

Some of the traffic jams in the city appeared virtually insoluble as people moved back into houses they had abandoned earlier.

The Viet Cong did little about controlling traffic, perhaps because the day had been declared a peace celebration, but few doubted that they soon would, and also see that the streets were cleaned of the debris of war.

Dozens of American cars were destroyed by fire. Soldiers in trucks collected discarded, and guns of all kinds.

Pueblo Still in Communist Hands

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — On a cold winter day in 1968 off the coast of North Korea the tiny electronics intelligence ship USS Pueblo bobbed into an international maelstrom when Communist gunboats fired on it and forced its surrender.

The Cambodian seizure of the unarmed American cargo ship Mayaguez and its 39 American crewmen Monday occurred just as unpredictably and evoked memories of that other capture more than seven years ago.

North Korean gunboats seized the Pueblo, crammed with sophisticated electronic intelligence gathering equipment, on Jan. 23, 1968, claiming the vessel had penetrated the Communist nation's 12-mile territorial limit to carry out spy activities.

Then-U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk described the incident as "in the category of actions to be construed as an act of war." But despite that, the Pueblo became the first American warship since 1807 to suffer the insult of being boarded in peacetime by foreigners on the high seas.

Before Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher and his surviving 81 crewmen were released after 11 months of captivity and torture, the Communists demanded and received an American admission of intrusion — one which the U.S. immediately repudiated.

While the men were kept in a prison near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, the incident became a nagging issue in America as private and unsuccessful talks dragged on between the U.S. and the Communists.

Individuals formed committees to pressure the government to take "necessary" action to free the men, while the question of blame for the seizure and what was to be done about the crew became an issue in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Some, including the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom who formed the "Remember the Pueblo Committee," advocated a hard line approach to the seizure that included taking the ship by force if necessary. Others, like then-Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., urged the State Department to "seek justice" before the World Court.

During their capture, the Pueblo crew became the victims of a concentrated application of physical and psychological torture that included the threat of execution until "confessions" were signed by Bucher and others that the Pueblo's spy mission had taken them into North Korean territorial waters.

The men also became the instruments of a concerted propaganda campaign on the part of the North Koreans to portray as humane the treatment received by the crew and support the claim that the "confessions" were willingly offered.

Photographs were circulated showing some of the men pointing to maps and talking with journalists while tables piled with food stood in the foreground. The crewmen, in turn, used sign language in group photographs later translated by deaf-mutes to spell out a message of "help."

The ordeal did not end when Bucher and his crew walked into South Korea on Dec. 22, 1968. A five-admiral Navy court ended a three-month inquiry in 1969 by recommending that Bucher and his executive officer, Edward R. Murphy Jr., be tried before a court-martial.

Old-line Navy brass showed little sympathy for Bucher's explanation that North Korean gunboats hopelessly out-gunned the Pueblo, and that further resistance would be futile after one man was killed and 11 wounded.

Navy Secretary John Chafee overruled the court, saying "they have suffered enough" and that further discipline would not serve the national interest.

Then, in mid-1969, a House Armed Services subcommittee unanimously approved a report that put the blame for loss of the ship squarely on the military brass. Its four-month investigation hammered away at the lack of precautionary steps taken before the unescorted ship sailed on her last mission.

The incident still has not run its course today. Murphy, who resigned his commission, early this year refused a Navy Commendation Medal terming it "too little too late" and blaming Bucher for delays in release of the crew. Bucher retired in June, 1973, after 28 years in the Navy.

As for the Pueblo, it remains somewhere in North Korea which has refused repeated U.S. demands for its return. Government intelligence agencies have said little about the ship's location, but believe it eventually was berth on the Tumen River near Russian Siberia to put it close to its ally, the Soviet Union.

Calls For Action

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lloyd Bucher, who commanded the U.S. Navy ship Pueblo when it was seized by North Korea, said that unless the United States takes strong military action against Cambodia immediately to free the captured merchant ship Mayaguez such incidents will multiply.

"Unless we learn our lesson, there will be increasing tweaking of our tail around the world," said Bucher, now retired from the Navy.

He said the United States "should get the Mayaguez and its crew out of there by whatever means necessary, even if it means military action. We have to react if we expect to have any leadership or credibility left in the world."

"It is a test," Bucher said. Failure to take "immediate retaliatory action will only tempt others to pull bigger and more severe depredations," he said.

Bucher, then a commander, was skipper of the electronic intelligence gathering ship Pueblo when it was surrounded by North Korean gunboats and boarded on Jan. 23, 1968. He and the crew spent 11 months as prisoners. They said they were beaten and tortured. They were not released until the United States apologized. North Korea kept the ship.

"The prestige of our country should not have suffered embarrassment from an outfit like North Korea, in its seizing the Pueblo on the high seas and then abstracting an apology from our government for having the ship there," Bucher said.

"I hope to hell there's no doubt in the mind of President Ford," that swift military retaliation is needed, Bucher said.

Contracts Are Signed At Saugerties Session

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties Board of Education, meeting Monday night, signed a three-year employment contract with Principal Robert Potter and a two-year contract with Assistant Principal Joseph Modica.

The board also voted unanimously to increase the senior citizens tax exemption from $5,000 to $6,500.

Announcement was made of the transfer of Mrs. Helga Krisp from the junior high guidance office to the senior high guidance office and the board agreed to discontinue the services of Elazabeth Burns as business education teacher at the high school. No discussion of the termination of her employment was held during the brief open meeting conducted by the board.

Two non-instructional appointments were approved with Joseph Maines named to a grounds maintenance post and James Manfro given part time employment in the district print shop.

The board set Monday, May 19 as the date for a public hearing on its budget. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

Internships for Students

STONE RIDGE

Two Ulster Community College students will serve eight-week internships with local police departments, beginning in June.

Theodore E. Ditez, associate professor of criminal justice, reported that Royal Addis, a Kerhonkson resident, is assigned to the Ellenville Police Department; while Steve Robinson, of Accord, is assigned to the Rosendale Town Police. Both are criminal justice students.

The students will work with uniformed officers and gain on-the-job experience during the internship. Their salaries will be paid by a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the federal government.

Professor Dietz commented, "I am pleased that Ulster has received these two grants. They provide valuable training while at the same time enabling these students to gain meaningful employment."

ISLANDERS GREET KATE SMITH

A DISAPPOINTED GLENN RESCH

CLARKE (L), WESTFALL IN POST-GAME EMBRACE

Clock Strikes Midnight for Cinderella Islanders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — According to Gary Dornhoefer of the Philadelphia Flyers, they are in the finals of the National Hockey League Stanley cup playoffs because of "hard work and heart."

But a hat trick and a song now and then doesn't hurt, either. Dornhoefer scored the first goal Tuesday night and Rick MacLeish got the three-goal hat trick as the Flyers, defending Cup champions, downed the New York Islanders 4-1. The victory gave the Flyers the seven-game semifinal round 4-3 and they will meet the Buffalo Sabres here Thursday night in the start of the finals.

Dornhoefer's goal came only 19 seconds after singer Kate Smith had sent the Spectrum into an uproar with a surprise appearance to sing "God Bless America."

Dornhoefer said, "Hard work and heart, those are the ingredients that won," but Miss Smith played a part.

For the past three years, the Flyers substitute Miss Smith's recording for the National Anthem in key game situations and she has a record of 43-3-1, including last year's Cup winner against the Boston Bruins when she made her first personal appearance here.

Flyers Coach Fred Shero said he hopes his team will not be in need of Miss Smith's inspiration for the Buffalo series.

"I try to play it down, but I know it means a lot to the players," he said.

Shero, who saw his team blow a 3-0 game advantage and lose three straight to the surprising Islanders, said he changed his strategy and "took the chains" off his defensive-styled team by sending two forwards into the Islanders' corners after the puck.

The aggressiveness paid off because after Dornhoefer's goal, MacLeish got his first on a power play about two minutes later by flicking in a shot in front of Islander goalie Glenn Resch.

After the Islanders scored a power play goal by Jude Drouin to make it 2-1, MacLeish completed the first-period scoring with a 30-foot slap shot. MacLeish got his final goal at 18:52 of the final period on a 40-footer into an open net after Resch had been lifted.

Islanders Coach Al Arbour said the Flyers, who bombarded Resch with 35 shots, "got the breaks early and stopped our momentum." He called Philadelphia a "tough team" but said the Islanders' future "is very bright."

The start of the game was delayed while an organ was wheeled out in place of the Islanders' net for Miss Smith to sing. New York tried to turn the tables on the gimmick as the Islander Captain Ed Westfall presented her with a bouquet of flowers and each of his teammates skated up and shook her hand.

But Resch didn't think the delay was fair. "She's a good lady and I like to hear her sing, but I think the people here could have more courtesy to a visiting team and not subject us to that kind of ceremony," Resch said.

SPORTS TODAY

Ryan Was 'Struggling'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nolan Ryan flirted with history again Tuesday night but he didn't see it that way.

Ryan said he had no thoughts of achieving his fourth career no-hitter—a feat that would have equalled Sandy Koufax's major league record—against the New York Yankees.

"I was struggling out there," the 28-year-old right-hander said. "I was too busy to worry about a no-hitter. I was just trying to concentrate and get my fastball over."

Ryan wound up with his sixth lifetime two-hitter (he also has four one-hitters) and a 5-0 victory. The Yankees didn't get their first hit until Bobby Bonds led off the seventh with a sharp single to left.

Chris Chambliss got the other New York hit, a scratch single to second with one out in the seventh after Bonds was erased while attempting to steal second.

"I didn't have good velocity," Ryan said. My curveball kept me in the game. Actually, 50 percent of my pitches were curves. I did feel pretty good in the eighth and ninth, though. In fact, it was the best I've felt in the late innings since I hurt my elbow."

Ryan strained a tendon in his right elbow April 24 in a 5-0 loss to Texas and missed a turn in the rotation.

By pitching his second straight shutout, third of the season and 21st of his career, Ryan ran his record to 7-1 to become the major leagues' third seven-game winner and also lowered his ERA to 1.94. Vida Blue and Don Sutton are the other seven-game winners.

He did have trouble with his control, walking five, including Yankee leadoff hitter Roy White three times. He struck out seven.

"Both of your hits came on curveballs," Ryan said. "The one to Bonds was a good pitch but it was in a bad location. It was down and in where he was able to adjust in time."

California Manager Dick Williams watched Ryan hurl his team back to 5-0—at 16-16—and said he was impressed by Ryan's tenacity.

"The way he goes about his business," said Williams, "reminds me of the way Don Drysdale used to work. He's no baloney. He's all business out there."

The Angels backed Ryan with a 12-hit attack but didn't get a run off Doc Medich, now 3-5, until the sixth inning on a walk to Bruce Bochte and singles by Joe Lahoud and Dave Chalk with two out. They added a pair in the seventh on run-scoring singles by Morris Nettles and Bochte and wrapped it up on Billy Smith's two-run double off Sparky Lyle in the eighth.

In the finale of a five-game homestand tonight, the Angels will go with Andy Hassler, 3-3, against Catfish Hunter, 3-4.

In other American League games Tuesday, the Indians edged Minnesota, 3-2; Texas blanked Milwaukee, 5-0; Baltimore edged Chicago, 3-2; Kansas City outlasted Detroit, 8-7; and Oakland downed Boston, 9-5.

Frank Duffy doubled home two runs and Buddy Bell supplied what proved to be the game-winner as Cleveland, behind Fritz Peterson and Dennis Eckersley, beat Minnesota.

Bobby Grich triple home one run and scored another as Ross Grimsley of Baltimore four-hit Chicago for his first win of the season; Bob Stinson drove in three runs and Tony Solaita knocked in a pair for the Royals; Cesar Tovar and Jim Spencer hit first inning homers and Jim Bibby allowed two hits as Texas won its fifth straight in a game called in the bottom of the fifth due to rain; Bill Williams drove in three runs with his third homer and Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace and Reggie Jackson added a pair of RBIs each for the A's.

Reuss Isn't Satisfied

(By UPI)

Jerry Reuss is a hard man to satisfy—even when he's beginning to look like the staff leader for whom the Pittsburgh Pirates have been searching.

The 25-year old left-hander, obtained from Houston after the 1973 season, pitched a three-hitter and struck out 12 batters Tuesday night when the Pirates scored a 2-0 victory over the San Diego Padres. Reuss has allowed only one run in his last 24 innings but refuses to rank himself among the National League's best pitchers.

"The highest paid pitchers have shown consistency," he said after the game. "What happens if I get clobbered the next four times out?"

Then, enjoying his joust with the flower of Pittsburgh's news media, he added some self-analysis.

"I don't rate games, but statistically it was the best," he said, ignoring the fact he pitched a one-hitter in 1972.

"Seaver, Sutton, Carlton and Gullett are the pitchers I try to watch and learn from. I won't be satisfied until I have a string of consistency."

Reuss, now 3-2, struck out seven batters in the first four innings before allowing a single by Dave Winfield in the fifth. He ended the Padres' most serious threat in the eighth inning when he struck out Hector Torres with two on and two out.

Frank Taveras drove in the Pirates' first run with a triple in the third inning and Manny Sanguillen knocked in the other with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. The victory enabled the Pirates to remain four games behind Chicago in the NL's Eastern Division race.

Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 5-0, Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 4-0, Chicago nipped Houston 2-1 and Atlanta topped Montreal 9-4 in other NL games. San Francisco at New York was rained out.

Dodgers 5, Cardinals 0

Burt Hooton pitched a twohitter and Jimmy Wynn drove in three runs with a homer and a single as Los Angeles beat St. Louis. Hooton yielded a fourthinning double to Ted Sizemore for the Cardinals' first hit and didn't allow another until Luis Melendez doubled in the ninth. It was his first win against three losses.

Phillies 4, Reds 0

Tom Underwood, 21-year old left-hander, pitched a six-hitter and struck out nine to score his fourth win in seven decisions for Philadelphia. Greg Luzinski had three hits, including a homer, in leading the Phillies' 10-hit attack. Gary Nolan was the loser for Cincinnati.

Cubs 2, Astros 1

Chicago scored one run on a balk by Doug Konieczny and another on Milt May's passed ball as Steve Stone ran his record to 5-0 by beating Houston. Stone went 8 1-3 innings and allowed seven hits before Oscar Zamora took over the ninth to achieve his fourth save.

Braves 9, Expos 4

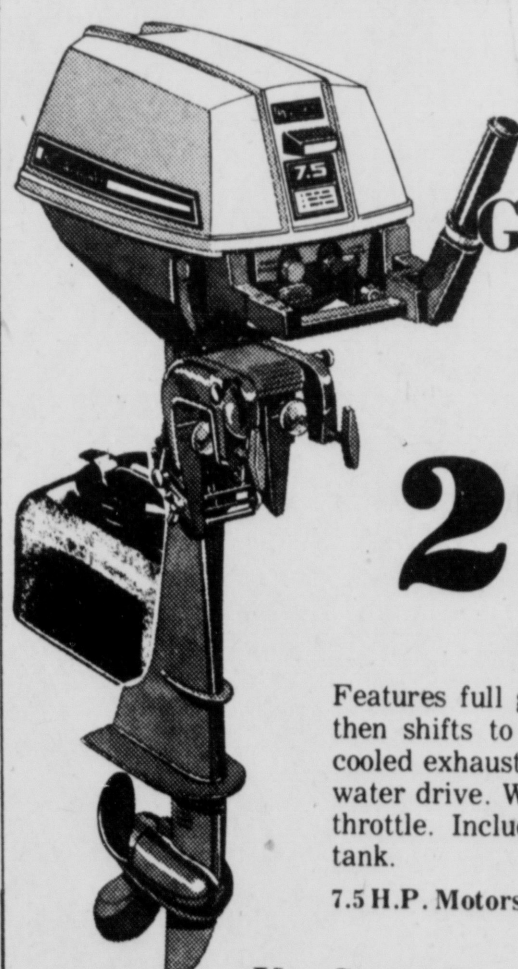

Earl Williams had a double and a single and drove in four runs for Atlanta, which routed Montreal's Dave McNally in the fifth inning and dealt the former Baltimore pitcher his fourth loss. Ron Reed went 8 1-3 innings to win his fourth game for the Braves.

Colonels Prove They Can Win Without Artis Gilmore

By BOB WESTON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Take 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore away from the Kentucky Colonels and they're like a car without a motor.

At least, that's what many observers have come to believe. But in the opening game of the American Basketball Association championship playoffs Tuesday night, the Colonels proved they could get by without Gilmore during the critical final nine minutes when they put away the Indiana Pacers 120-94.

The second game of the best-of-seven finals will be played here Thursday night before the series moves to Indianapolis for games Saturday and Monday nights.

"What our guys did during that final seven-minute span was beautiful to watch," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "We had five uncontested fast-break layups. We were stealing the ball and getting it to the key people. We were totally unselfish. And we held Indiana to just two baskets during that period."

When Gilmore went to the bench with his sixth foul, Kentucky was ahead 89-79 with 9:19 left. The Pacers reduced that margin to 89-84 and many Kentucky partisans in the crowd of 14,386 sensed imminent doom.

But the Colonel reserves—Marv Roberts, Ron Thomas and later Bird Averitt—came to the rescue. Combining with Dan Issel, Louie Dampier and Ted McClain, they generated a devastating fast break.

Roberts finished with his season high of 19 points, Averitt contributed 15 and Thomas 10.

Issel, disappointed in general with his rebounding this season, put forth an extra effort on the backboards after Gilmore departed and wound up with a game-high 19 rebounds.

"I can't remember the last time I had that many rebounds," said Issel, who also scored 18 points.

Despite sitting out 12 minutes of the last half, Gilmore topped Kentucky in scoring with 26 points and Dampier added 22.

Brawny George McGinnis was most of the offensive show for Indiana with 35 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists. Kevin Joyce was second high in scoring for the Pacers with 20, followed by rookie Billy Knight with 18.

"We stunk in every category of the game," lamented Indiana coach Bob Leonard. "Their bench really hurt us but the way we were playing, I don't think we could have guarded anyone."

End for Bulls or Warriors

OAKLAND (UPI) — The long 1974-75 National Basketball Association season comes to an end tonight for either the Chicago Bulls or the Golden State Warriors.

The clubs meet in the seventh and final game of the Western Conference final playoff series with the winner going on to play the Washington Bullets for the NBA title and the loser going home and calling it a season.

The game will be televised nationally (CBS) starting at 6 p.m. PDT with no local blackout and oddsmakers list the Warriors, who got up off the floor in Chicago Sunday to tie the series at three victories each, as slight favorites.

"It has been an excellent series between two outstanding teams and all we can do is give it our best," said Warriors Coach Al Attles Tuesday after running his team through a drill and then retiring to view films of last Sunday's 86-72 victory over Chicago.

No one is surprised the Bulls are where they are at this late date. Before the season started everyone figured they were a cinch to make the playoffs and had a shot at the championship.

The Warriors are something else. From the start of the season they were picked as also rans but with rookies Phil Smith, Keith Wilkes and Derek Dickey coming of age in a hurry plus the usual star play of Rick Barry, Golden State took the lead in its division from the start and led all the way.

"These kids have worked their tail off and everything they get they deserve," said Attles. "Win or lose tonight, it's been a helluva season for us."

While Attles has chosen a low key attitude for tonight's game, the more emotional Dick Motta, Chicago's coach, calls it "the biggest we've ever had in our lives."

It is a big game with a lot of money as well as pride at stake. For two veteran Warriors at least, Jeff Mullins and Bill Bridges, it could be their last. Both have announced they will retire at the conclusion of the season.

KHS Early Attack Routs John Jay, 9-3

WICCOPEE Kingston High battered John Jay's Jay Ennesser for seven hits in the first three innings Tuesday and went on to post a 9-3 victory that kept it a half game in front of

Ketcham in the DCSL baseball race. The Maroons gave winning pitcher Joe Primo cracked a pair of hits himself to help in that department. The KHS hurler singled in the second inning to drive Rich Bell home with the first score of the day, and he had another safety in the third when the winners staged a three-run rally.

Steve Hughes had a three-for-three day to lead the Maroons' 14-hit attack. He and Duane Carey doubled in the third ahead of singles by Primo and Bell to provide Kingston with a quick 4-0 lead.

Primo wasn't overpowering, he notched five strikeouts against four walks, but he scattered five hits to stay out of trouble most of the way. He tied in the seventh when the Patriots scrambled for two runs on three hits, but Paul Lawatsch came on to retire the side.

Kingston is now 9-3, one up in the loss column on Ketcham, but the rest of the week is crucial to KHS' pennant hopes. The Maroons face Ketcham today, Saugerties Thursday and Arlington Friday.

Cindy Turck: A Shutout

PORT EWEN Cindy Turck of the Port Ewen Athletic Association blanked Double J Provision 13-0 on five hits in the Town of Esopus Little League Division Senior girls softball circuit. In the other game, Pretty Pet Parlor stopped Wood N Wheel, 8-3 on a six-hitter by Roxanne Pecora.

The Athletic Association backed Miss Turck with 16 hits, including three each by Sandy Lyons (double), Kathy Moxham (double). She also had two hits, Sandy Lyons, Pam Emerick and Kathy Moxham had three RBIs.

Tammy Bishop led Pretty Pet Parlor with three singles. Karlene Wunderlich and Roxanne Pecora added two singles each. Michelle Miller hit two singles for WNW.

Hudson Defeats KHS; First Tennis Loss of '75

HUDSON Kingston High suffered its first varsity tennis loss of the season Tuesday as powerful Hudson handed the Maroons a 6-1 defeat.

Hudson was out to make up for the only negative mark on its record, an early season tie with Kingston. The upstarts are 12-0-1. KHS is now 8-1-1.

The Maroons were defeated in all five singles matches. David Allen topped Dan Ingalsbe, 10-7; Ken Sheffer stopped Kevin Boyd, 10-1; Mark Buschman trimmed Brian Decker, 10-4; Lou Piero outscored Garth Galyon, 10-2; and Allan Eldrige whipped Jim Contino, 10-5.

In doubles, Joe Argulewicz and Rich Smith of KHS beat Alonzo Eldridge and Jeff Noodleman, 12-10; and Ed White and Ted Whitman of Hudson tripped Matt Klein and Jos Janasiewicz, 10-8.

Kingston had been scheduled to play Ontario, but when the inclement weather forced postponement of that match, KHS coach John Hunter scheduled the outing with Hudson.

The Maroons are at Lourdes Thursday.

A Bavarian Farewell

Bavarians in traditional Lederhosen costume provide an honor guard for the Olympic flag-draped coffin of the late Avery Brundage, following memorial services in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, Monday. Brundage, the former president of the International Olympic Committee, died Thursday in Germany. (UPI)

Olympic Site Stays

ROME (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee is not considering alternative sites for the 1976 Olympics despite strikes and violence in Montreal, an IOC source said Wednesday.

"Killanin (IOC President Lord Killanin) has said repeatedly that there will be no change," the source said. "There is no precedent for changing an announced site, apart from the case of Denver where the city itself decided it did not want the 1976 Winter Games."

The source was commenting on a wildcat strike and labor violence in Montreal which slowed down construction of Olympic facilities. Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said Tuesday he would be ready to sacrifice the Olympics if this were needed to restore social order to the province, but he said he did not expect this would be so.

Killanin and other members of the IOC Executive are in Rome for a meeting with representatives of National Olympic Committees who are holding their Seventh General Assembly at the Mussolini-built Foro Italico sports complex.

The assembly was scheduled to hear a report later today by Simon St. Pierre, executive vice president of the Olympic Games Organizing Committee.

The Rome meeting is not empowered to make decisions. Sports sources said any possible decision about switching the site of the 1976 Olympics would be made at an IOC meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland, later this month.

There have been unconfirmed reports that Teheran and Los Angeles have been suggested as alternative sites, or else the Games might be split among various Canadian cities.

The General Assembly of NOCs began Tuesday on a political note.

Giulio Onesti, president of the Italian committee and the general assembly, told newsmen Rhodesia had withdrawn from the gathering at the request of black African nations. He said the Rhodesian delegation heeded his plea "not to create conflict."

Rockland Rips 'XV' Golfers

WATERBURY, Conn. — Coach Howe Pierson's Rockland County Community College golfers ran away from the field in the Region XV Sub-Regional Tournament, posting a 306 team aggregate to finish 20 strokes ahead of runnerup Westchester.

Greg Snyder, Rockland's No. 1 player, was the tournament medalist with a five-over-par, 39-38-77, over the par-72 Western Hills Golf Club.

Unable to field more than three players, Ulster County Community College did not figure in the team scoring. Kyle King led the Ulster contingent with 42-45-87. Charlie Mazzola had 98 and Holger Sternberg 113.

The entire Rockland and Westchester squads and five other low scorers were selected for the Region XV finals Sunday and Monday at the Beckman Golf Club in Dutchess County.

John Abate of Rockland, and Bill Violett of Westchester and Larry Bentez of Post tied with 78s. Graham Blake of Dutchess and Steve Merritt of Rockland carded 79. Tied with 80s were Fred Miller of Post, George Codding of Dutchess and Frank Perrelli of Westchester. Joe Nicolsia of Westchester rounded out the Top Ten with an 81.

Rondout's Jeff Purcell Blanks Marlboro, 6-0

MARLBORO While the rest of the Ulster County Athletic League's baseball teams stayed inside to avoid thunderstorms and wet fields, Rondout Valley

The Bath That Refreshes

Singh, the Cynthia Phipps' 3-year-old who is a highly regarded challenger to Foolish Pleasure in Saturday's 100th running of the Preakness Stakes, enjoys a whirlpool bath after a light workout Monday. (UPI)

Morning Prep

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Singh, who missed the Kentucky Derby because of an injury, is gearing up for a try in the 100th running of the Preakness with light early morning exercise.

Trainer John Russell, who was injured himself when another horse stepped on his foot and hobbled around on a cane, said after a 5:45 a.m. Tuesday workout, "He's a very restless horse and I have to get him out to settle him down."

Then Russell took the 3-year-old back to the stables for a whirlpool bath on its forelegs. "He liked it very much," reported Russell.

Singh, owned jointly by Cynthia Phipps and Hal Price Headly Jr., was listed at 8-1 for the second race in the Triple Crown after a 6-length victory in the Preakness Prep last Saturday. Singh, whose injury kept him out of the Derby, was given the same tentative odds as Master Derby, who finished fourth in the Derby.

Media, the fifth place Derby finisher, and Just the Time, who are entered as a pair in the Preakness, were given a day to recover from their Monday trip from New York to Baltimore before they are to run the track today.

Security Increased

BALTIMORE (UPI) — With estimates of attendance running as high as 80,000, Gov. Marvin Mandel has authorized the assignment of National Guardsmen to help insure all goes well at the 100th running of the Preakness May 17.

J. Newton Brewer, Jr., the chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission suggested the use of guardsmen to patrol the Preakness infield after watching an unruly crowd at the Kentucky Derby. Chick Lang, general manager of Pimlico Race Course, has already added 150 security guards to the usual Preakness complement of 75.

and increase their lead in Division II to one full game over Coleman.

Purcell mowed the Dukes down with ten strikeouts and stayed out of danger all the way. He also reached safely on a Marlboro error in the first inning and scored in one of Rondout's three consecutive two-run rallies.

Dave Schmeltz singled to begin the game and promptly stole second. He went to third when the Dukes failed to get Purcell out. Jeff Mahoney and Todd Buswell followed with back-to-back singles off loser George Casey that scored both runners, and RVC was on its way to its event win in ten games.

Rondout added two runs in the second and two more in the third to seal the victory. Casey went all the way allowing eight hits and three walks against seven strikeouts. Marlboro dropped to 3-6 and four games off the pace in Division III.

Of the rained out contests, Highland will be at Coleman, Ellenville will be at Pine Bush and Liberty will play Fallsburgh on Thursday. The Walkkill-Red Hook game has been reset for Saturday at 11 a.m.

Allen Thompson Is MVP

MIDDLETOWN Westchester County Community College's Allen Thompson has been named Most Valuable Player in the recently completed Mid-Hudson Conference 1974-75 Basketball season.

Thompson was the floor leader for the Westchester Vikings, leading his team to a perfect 12-0 conference mark. He finished third in conference assists, averaging 6.5 per game. He played in 10 conference games, averaging more than 16 points a game and pulling down nearly seven rebounds per contest. In addition, he hit nearly 70 percent of his free throw tries.

Ahlmeyer Award Winner

Craig Wilson (R), four times a State University of New York Athletic Conference swimming champion for New Paltz State, is named the school's Heinz Ahlmeyer Award winner by Dr. Eugene T. DeLuca, Chairman, Department of Physical Education and Athletics. Award is given annually to varsity athlete who "represents the spirit" of Hawk teams. Ahlmeyer was a New Paltz athlete in the mid-1960's who was killed in Vietnam.

No Contract for Pele

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — International soccer star Pele and representatives of the New York Cosmos held "friendly and cordial" contract negotiations Tuesday, but failed to arrive at an agreement, the team's president told UPI.

Nesuhi Ertegun, president of the Cosmos of the North American Soccer League, said, "we held friendly and cordial negotiations with Pele but so far we have not reached an agreement. Negotiations will continue for several more days."

On April 30, Pele rejected a $6 million offer for a three year contract, claiming the tax bite by Brazilian and American governments would reduce the actual sum to around one million or possibly even $500,000.

Asked if the Cosmos had increased their offer, Ertegun said, "as a matter of ethics, we cannot discuss the amount of money we offered Pele."

Shortly after the meeting, Pele, 34, told newsmen that for $9 million he would agree to be the Cosmos coach, play 10 to 15 exhibition games and participate in some publicity campaigns organized by the Cosmos' parent company, Warner Communications Inc. of New York.

When told of Pele's comments to the press, Ertegun said, "during our meeting we never discussed the possibility of Pele being a coach or of playing only exhibition matches. And in any case we would never accept such an offer because we want Pele as a player not a coach."

He added that besides playing, Warner Communications wants Pele to appear in TV, films and to lend his name to several products.

Pele, whose real name is Edson Arantes do Nascimento, retired from professional play after 17 years with the Santos team in southern Brazil.

Young Stockaders Attain Honors

The young Stockaders have received invitations to speak all over New York State as a result of a feature article on the group in the State Education Bicentennial Journal inaugurated through the efforts of Mrs. Viola Opdahl of Kingston Schools Consolidated. Woodstock Stockaders-Coleen Pleugh, Will Myers, Richard Cyr, Allison West and Wendy West join Viola Opdahl and John Pike (L-R). The county youth history group numbers about 600 members.

Chief Medic Named

WASHINGTON, D.C. Dr. Harry E. Tebrock, former medical director of General Telephone and Electronics Corp., has been named chief medical director for the U. S. Postal Service.

Dr. Tebrock has a distinguished background in industrial medicine. In addition to his General Telephone post, he is a past president of the Society for Industrial Medicine, and is an advisor on industrial medicine for the National Association of Manufacturers.

From Postal Service headquarters in Washington he will direct professional activities of five postal regional medical directors in New York City, Philadelphia, Chicago, Memphis, and San Bruno, Calif.

The Postal Service, with over 700,000 employees, has an extensive industrial medicine program including medical units in most major post offices dealing with injury treatment, first aid, education, and other appropriate industrial medical activities.

Dr. Tebrock, a native of New York City, received his medical education at the Downstate Medical College of the University of The State of New York. He is a fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine and a member of numerous other professional groups and is the author of several articles on industrial medicine for leading medical journals.

Commencement at Marist

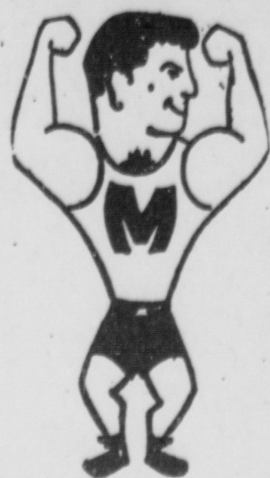

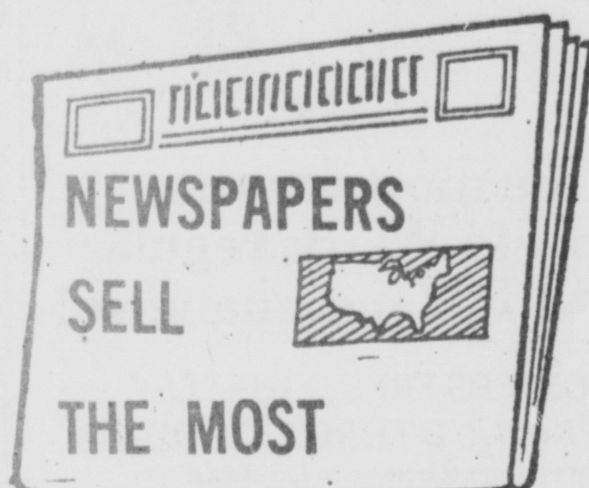

POUGHKEEPSIE U. S. Senator William D. Hathaway of Maine will be guest speaker at the 29th commencement exercises of Marist College May 17.

More than 340 men and women are expected to receive bachelor degrees in business, sciences and the humanities. Fourteen masters degrees will also be awarded.

For the first time Marist will confer masters degrees in business administration, a program initiated in 1972. Last year the first graduate psychology degrees were awarded. Marist will also award its first bachelor degrees in criminal justice, a major introduced in 1973.

Hathaway's background includes a law degree from Harvard, county attorney in Maine and examiner for the state liquor commission. He was elected to congress as representative from Maine's second congressional district in 1964, and was reelected to four consecutive terms.

He was elected to the senate in 1972 and is chairman of the subcommittee on Revenue Sharing. His other major committee assignment is the Labor and Public Welfare Committee. He is also chairman of the Subcommittee on Alcoholism and Narcotics.

Mock Program Set

KINGSTON The recently organized Ulster County Emergency Medical Council is presently planning a mock disaster this summer which will be conducted by council representatives from the ambulance, medical and police services, according to Gilbert E. Gray, disaster chairman. The date will be announced.

The disaster may take the form of a fire, a chain reaction motor vehicle accident or explosion. Victims, who have been trained for the purpose, will portray those who might be victims in a real disaster. Gray said they will wear simulated wounds of deep cuts or charred burns, and broken bones with protruding bone fragments. "Gushing blood at will, they will scream, roll on the ground in agony, groan, and push those away who are trying to help them, at the same time begging for help," Gray explained.

The purpose of the new council is to coordinate all emergency services, such as ambulances, both volunteer and commercial; fire companies, Ulster County Fire Control Center, Red Cross, Civil Defense, hospitals, doctors, nurses, state and local police, Sheriff's Department and anyone who at anytime is connected with emergency situations in the county.

The council, by organizing and coordinating the different services can cover a greater field of emergency care, Gray said. Harriet Weber, president of the Ulster County Ambulance Association, is chairman of the council which meets bi-monthly in the Ulster County Office Building.

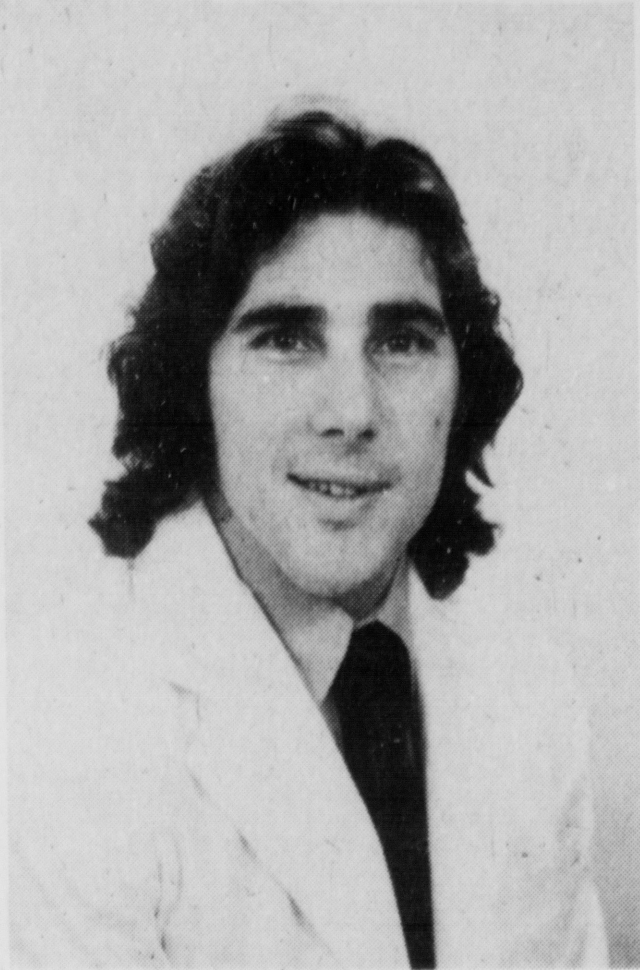

Some council members have been attending meetings in Albany tapping the resources of the State Health Department. They include Mrs. Weber, Ulster County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto, Daniel Fochi and Russell Converse.

YMCA Extends County Fund Drive

KINGSTON The YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County has extended its fund drive, according to Christos Larios, campaign general chairman.

The May 8 report was to have been the last of the campaign as originally planned to raise $2 million for a new gymnasium complex, handball and squash courts, a running track, and related facilities to be added to the present swimming pool complex at 507 Broadway. Some of the funds also will be used to amortize the mortgage on the present pool.

The total reported through last Thursday was $745,487, for 37 percent of the goal. Larios said that additional contributions from the Top Level and Big Gifts and Teams phase will increase the total substantially when reported.

A "mop-up" project is scheduled to run through May 22. Larios urged all campaign workers to complete calls and make final reports by then. Top Level and Big Gifts phases of the drive will continue until all are contacted.

Dr. Jack Roosa, Teams chairman, urged area citizens who have not been contacted personally to call 331-4954 to have a campaign worker call on them personally for their pledge.

'Infant Care'

WASHINGTON, D.C. Uncle Sam's print shop turns out millions of words a year on everything from air pollution to zip codes, but the top topic is still children.

The Government Printing Office prints post cards and passports, lithographs and language guides, scholarly reports and the Congressional Record, yet the all-time best seller is a modest little booklet called "Infant Care," with more than 17 million copies sold at $1.05.

Late delivery can bring howls from customers. A mid-western woman got her complaint across with a birth announcement addressed to the Superintendent of Documents.

"Several months ago I ordered a copy of 'Prenatal Care,'" she wrote. "Obviously I don't need it now. Will you please send me 'Infant Care,' but if it's going to take several years, make it 'Your Child From One to Six.'"

SIMMONS PLAZA NEW PALTZ

The people who make Utica Club hereby issue this friendly challenge.

Take any two beers of your choice. And one of ours. Utica Club. Pour them into mugs. Have someone blindfold you or just mix the mugs up.

Now, taste the beers. See if you can tell them apart. And, if so, which one would you set apart.

Before you give us your verdict, allow us to plead our case.

In tests like this conducted in colleges in upstate New York, Utica Club was preferred more often than not. Not just by Utica Club drinkers, either.

Everyone was surprised by the results. Except, of course, for us.

Now here's how to mark yourself. If you pick us out, we both pass.

If you pick another beer over us, we fail.

If you can't tell the difference between the beers, you'll just have to try again. (And don't fail to notice that your favorite beers didn't taste any better than our favorite).

Either way, we're sure that with this exam, you won't fail to enjoy yourself. After all, how many other exams can you drink your way through?

Ulster Sportsmen's Show

Dartball Exhibition Is Highlight

NEW PALTZ
The inimitable flingers from the now-famous Saugerties Dartball League will be among the featured attractions at the second annual Ulster County Sportsmen's Show, which begins Friday.

Ten teams from the popular Dartball League—including the high-flying Doggies "F" Troop and the low-flying Highwoods Sportsmen's Club—will present a public dartball demonstration and will compete for individual trophies Friday night. League officials will also be there to answer questions about the fast-growing sport.

This year's show will be held at the Ulster County Fairgrounds on Libertyville Road in New Paltz on Friday and Saturday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Sunday from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Admission is $1.50; children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult. Senior Citizens will be admitted for 50 cents on Friday.

The three day event will include a wide variety of exhibits featuring the latest in sporting and camping equipment, as well as special craft displays. And entertainment will be provided continuously every day and evening.

Some of the attractions for the three-day event include:
• The Elkins Sisters, who present a program of symphonic movement, gymnastics and body control. They have performed at sportsmen's shows throughout the country and are regular headliners in Las Vegas.

• Mike Monroe, billed as "Mr. Tall Top," who performs a comedy acrobatic routine on the trampoline.

• Paul LaCross, "The World's Fastest, Fanciest Gunslinger, Knife and Tomahawk Thrower," who will display his talents throughout the show.

• A chain saw cutting contest, which will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, which will feature cash prizes in each of three separate categories.

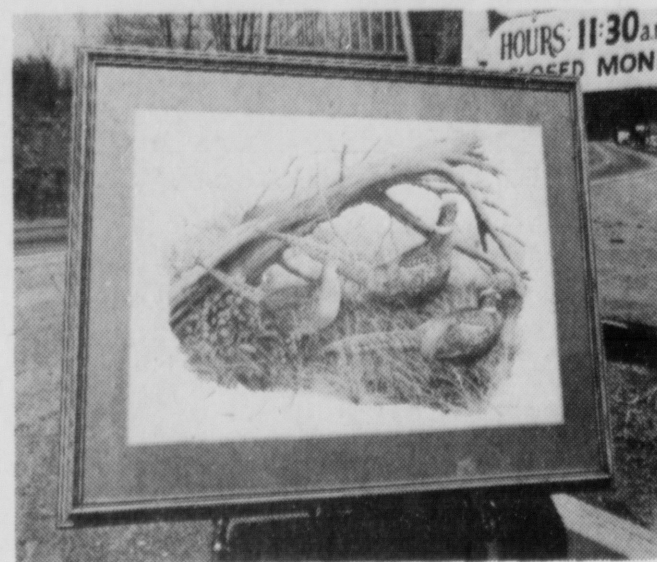

• The Pennsylvania Anglers, three expert flyrod casters, who will perform precision casts and demonstrations.

• The Kingston Archers, who will present a professional archery demonstration.

• A three-day art exhibit that will feature wildlife paintings from a collection of prints loaned to the show by the Wild Life Gallery in Ellenville.

In addition, there will be carnival rides for the youngsters throughout the thre-day show and pony rides on Saturday only from 4 to 6 p. m.

The sportsmen's show, the largest of its kind in this area, is sponsored annually by the Ulster County Federate Sportsmen's Clubs.

SOPRANO MARIANNA CHRISTOS

Kingston Woman Takes Second Prize In Metropolitan Opera Auditions

By Dorothy A. Narel

Soprano Marianna Christos, who just recently won a $4,000 second prize in the annual Metropolitan Opera auditions, is walking on "Cloud No. 9" these days for she was not only one of 10 finalists in the top three but was drawn to compete from more than 1,500 entrants.

What makes it even more unique is that this very attractive, dark-haired talented woman from Beaver, Pa., now lives in Kingston, N.Y., at 623 Delaware Avenue. Her husband, James E. McGroarty is a teacher, writes songs and plays the clarinet. He also fills playing engagements in the Catskills.

"We moved here because this is where my husband could have a job and it's only two hours to New York City where I study with Ellen Faulk of the Manhattan School of Music," Miss Christos has been studying with the vocal teacher privately for the past three years.

Miss Christos sang arias from "Turandot" and "I Pagliacci" in the final competition which took place on the Metropolitan Opera stage in New York City.

A direct result of the competition is appearance with the Detroit Opera Company and Symphony in the role of Mimi in "La Boheme."

Miss Christos, who had to be in New York once a week, took all kinds of jobs in Kingston. She worked for an answering service, a pet store and the Grand Union.

"I'd tell people I was studying voice and they'd say — 'Hm, yes. They wouldn't believe me.'"

The award-winning soprano had auditioned twice before for the Metropolitan but didn't win. "I waited for a while because I was with a new teacher. And then I decided this was the year because I wanted to see if I could win money."

"I decided to audition in New York — that's the hardest area. They were going to pick 10 of us and there were more than 140 of us just in New York. Some people skip and audition in their home areas — it is easier. But I won in New York, then went to Philadelphia where there were about four of us, placed there and got to come back to the semi-finals in New York."

"I cleared the semi-finals and on the day of the finals I had to give a performance in Connecticut. They (the Metropolitan Auditions Committee) arranged for my audition to be early so I could sing and leave. I had to sing with the Greenwich Choral Society."

"I was really nervous that day. I sang my selections . . . I had the tail end of a cold but it just whipped out. My teacher attended the audition and told me it was the best she had ever heard."

Even while in Connecticut later that day for her concert, the young singer kept phoning to find out the results. "Any chance I got I'd call and the answer was 'the judges are still deciding.' Finally when I called once more, they said — 'Congratulations, you are in the finals.'"

Miss Christos pointed out that the Met did not give out any contracts this year. "The Met is in financial trouble and they announced they didn't have anything to offer," Miss Christos said.

She also indicated that even if she had been offered a contract, her teacher cautioned her about taking it.

"Many people have been unhappy because you're sort of locked in at the Met," Miss Christos explained. "You have to understudy roles you could never do if you had to suddenly perform them. They're too heavy for you so you just do these same parts like Kay Pinkerton (Madam Butterfly) for ever and ever. And they don't allow you to go out and get experience like I'm now going to get in Detroit," she said.

'Always wanted to sing'

..... first musician in her family.

Things are really looking up for Miss Christos. She now has her management — Nellie Walter — who set up her first audition with St. Luke's Symphony.

"They're doing a concert with various arias and some popular things and they hired me then and there," the singer said. Considered to be in the "Young Artists" category, Miss Christos will be singing for the Chicago Lyric Club and auditioning for the Honolulu Opera and Columbia Artists the end of this month. "The Schubert Club heard me in Connecticut and I will be appearing for them next April," she said.

"I have always wanted to sing," says Marianna Christos. She is the first musician in her family although an aunt is reported to have had a good voice. But Marianna explains that when she was very, very young she told her parents she could sing. "I sat them down in the living room and sang for them. In schools I sang in all the talent shows, always a soloist, and my first operetta was in first grade when I was a 'rain drop' in Cinderella."

Miss Christos says singing is a gift and the hardest part is developing it. She says there is so much to learn and lots of absences from her husband. She emphasized her husband is her biggest support.

The youthful singer, who works in Spanish, Italian, French, English and German, says there will be no children for a while — "I couldn't do that to them."

Miss Christos, whose background is Greek, feels she has a Greek sound to her voice — an earthiness that Maria Callas had. She says: "Puccini is going to be my favorite, however, for now. Tosca will be about 15 years from now."

The soprano's family resides in Florida and the family name is Christodoulou. "I knew it would be mispronounced and decided to change my name to Christy. Then I thought it should be changed to something more Greek — Christos. Everyone agreed it was very good."

A true Diva, Miss Christos gives this advice to other singers.

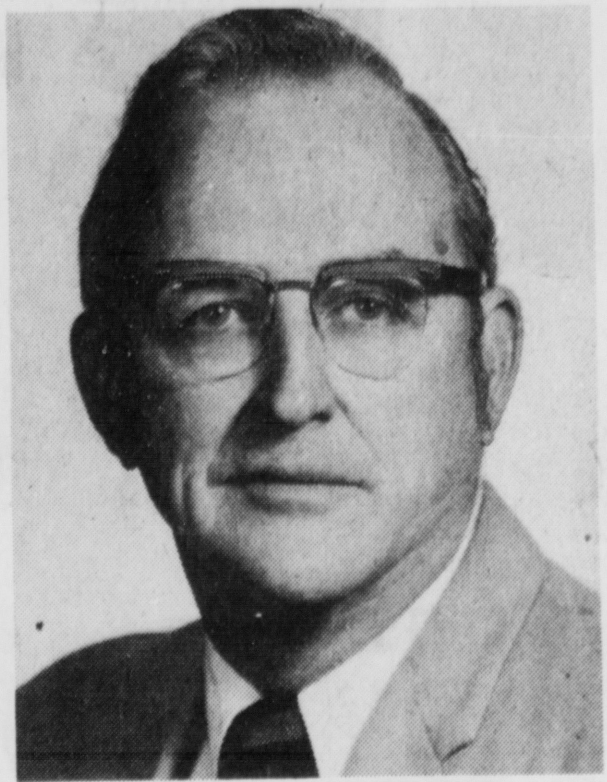

Judges For County Pageant

The five persons who will judge the 1975 Miss Ulster County Pageant were named today. The Pageant, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, is to be held on Saturday, May 17, at 8 p.m. in the M. Clifford Miller Jr. High School in Lake Katrine.

John Lawson, judges committee chairman, said today that the judges are: Carroll W. Anstaett of Olean, president of the Miss New York State Pageant for the past eight years; Helen L. Davenport, owner of her own dress shop on Main Street in Kingston; Mrs. Donald (Judy) Mac Isaac, formerly of Kingston, now a resident of Stamford, Conn., and a past Miss Massachusetts; S. James Matthews, a practicing attorney in Kingston; and, Richard L. Skimin, head of the department of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics at Dutchess County Community College. Skimin is currently the president of the Dutchess County Pageant.

Lawson pointed to the quality and experience of the five individuals whose responsibility it will be to ultimately select the 1975 Miss Ulster County. All have had years of involvement with pageants, generally, and with the County and State programs in particular. They will begin their judging early Saturday afternoon, May 17. Points are based on poise, personality, beauty and, most of all, talent.

Although tickets are still available for the pageant, seating is limited. To obtain tickets, Mrs. Lois Buchan in Saugerties should be contacted. Tickets are also available at Joseph's Hair Stylists in Saugerties and the Chamber of Commerce office in Kingston.

Mrs. Sara Torres, instructor, displays the cookbook which will be given to each student who enrolls in the six-class vegetarian cooking course.

Course on Vegetarian Cookery

A special course on vegetarian cookery will begin Monday, May 19 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church at 30 Pearl Street. The six-lesson course will be held Monday and Wednesday nights for three weeks through June 4.

The objective of the course is to emphasize the importance of good nutrition for good health. The course will feature cooking demonstrations, lectures, films, samples and awards.

Available will be protein foods which resemble different kinds of meats in flavor, texture and appearance. These vegetarian meats are made from soy and wheat proteins and contain no cholesterol.

Mrs. Sara Torres, dietitian and wife of the Seventh-Day Adventist pastor in Kingston, will conduct the classes. "I think people will be surprised to see how really well and inexpensively they can eat without spending a lot of money on meat," she said.

There is a small charge for the course to pay for cookbooks and other items the students will receive.

Feminist Theologian to Appear At Woodstock Women's Center

Mary Daly, feminist theologian and associate professor of Theology at Boston College, will make a rare public appearance at the Woodstock Women's Center, 59A Tinker Street, over the Cafe Espresso, this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. She is the author of two books concerning women and the church: The Church and the Second Sex, published in the late sixties, and Toward God The Father: Beyond the Philosophy of Women's Liberation (1973), which poet Adrienne Rich called "truly the first philosophy of feminism, the first psychology of the feminist experience." Ms. Daly will speak about "Radical Feminism: A Qualitative Leap Beyond Patriarchy" as part of the Women's Center Thursday night lecture series, which is scheduled to continue through the summer and will include feminist psychologists, apostles, writers and theorists. On Thursday, May 29, the speaker will be Kate Millett, author of the landmark Sexual Politics, The Prostitution Papers, and the recently published Flying. The lecture series is open to all women. Casse Culver, a long-time inhabitant of Woodstock and one of its favorite women musicians, will appear at the Woodstock Women's Center coffeehouse this Friday, at 9 p.m. Ms. Culver writes and sings her own music. Now a resident of Washington, D.C., where she is organizing a women's record company, Ms. Culver makes periodic appearances in Woodstock, both at Town Hall and at the Women's Center. All women are welcome.

Program Set For Christian Women Club's Luncheon

The May 20 luncheon meeting of the Kingston Christian Women's Club will be held at the Holiday Inn at 11:30 a.m.

This month's special music will be presented by Jean Benton of Stone Ridge. Mrs. Benton studied with the late Dorothea Flick and Leonard Stine. She has an extensive background in singing at local churches, and also performed at the Arlene Bernard Organ Recital. Evie Hopkins will be the accompanist.

Listed as guest speaker for this luncheon is Joyce Stanley of Middletown. A sought-after speaker, Mrs. Stanley is a former commercial artist and interior decorator. She is currently active in the Middletown Christian Women's Club and acts as Friendship Bible Study Coordinator in that area. Mr. Stanley is a bank examiner for the State of New York and they are the parents of three children.

Special feature this month will be Mrs. Aleta Reuben, of Home Decorator Workshop, Kingston, demonstrating the art of making lampshades.

Free nursery facilities are available at the Holiday Inn. Each child should be provided with a sack lunch and soft toy.

Reservations are necessary for the luncheon and should be made immediately with Mrs. Lucille Davidson, Kingston; Mrs. Rose Krom, Kingston; or Mrs. Mary Bordeaux, Saugerties. If cancellation is necessary, one of the above should be notified.

All area ladies are invited to attend.

Needlepoint Exhibition Saturday

The Needlepoint and Crewel Club of Rhinebeck will hold an exhibition May 17 at Rhinebeck Town Hall from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Proceeds from the event will benefit the local library.

Original oil paintings by Hazel Abrahamsen of Shandaken are being exhibited at Town of Ulster Library now through June 3. They may be viewed during the regular library hours. Mrs. Abrahamsen specializes in paintings of local landscapes. The painting here is entitled "Woodland Valley." Her studio is "on the scene," painting outdoors eight months of the year, weather permitting. One of her paintings was included in a recent exhibit at the Berkshire Museum, Pittsfield, Mass. Mrs. Abrahamsen is a member of Woodstock Artists Association and Ulster County Artists Association. She is married to Kai Abrahamsen, Shandaken town councilman. They have three school age children.

Tillson Family Reunion

The Tillson Family will have its second annual reunion Sunday, May 18 at the firehouse in Tillson starting at noon.

The reprinted Tillson Family Genealogy will be discussed. Copies will be available at that time.

An informal visiting program is planned to help members become better acquainted. Those attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch. Hot drinks will be available.

Further information may be had by contacting Kenneth Clark of Tillson; Mrs. Mary Kidd, 18 Ulster Avenue, Walden; or Mrs. Maude D. Snyder, 295 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Spring Concert

The New Paltz High School Band invites the public to attend its annual Spring Concert Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The concert will include selections from three of the high school's music organizations: the Concert Band, the Stage Band, and the newest group, the Dixieland Band.

CDA Communion Breakfast

Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa Maria No. 164, held an annual Communion Breakfast May 4 at Holiday Inn. The Rev. Msgr. Thomas Mullins of St. Colman's Church in East Kingston, Court chaplain, celebrated the Mass prior to the breakfast.

Guest speaker was Sister Jean Iannone, S.C., a native of Saugerties, who is presently serving as executive secretary to the president of the Sisters of Charity at St. Vincent DePaul at New York City.

A graduate of St. Mary's School and St. Ursula's Academy, Sister Jean received her BS degree from Mt. St. Vincent's College. She has taught in Haverstraw, White Plains, and Saugerties, and served five years in the missions in the Bahama Islands.

Sister's topic was "Mother Elizabeth Bayly Seton" who will be canonized September 14 at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. Sister Jean will be present for the ceremony along with several persons who, according to various statements, were "miraculously cured through prayer to Mother Seton." The talk was accompanied by slides. Each guest received a memento of the occasion.

Open House Stresses Homelife

A live demonstration of how great a family home evening can be will be shown by the Roger DeBry family of Zena, at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Fording Place Road, Lake Katrine, on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The families who hold family home evening on a regular weekly basis reap many benefits, such as keeping a family unified, showing an increased appreciation of one another, strengthening their ties by opening lines of communication between them, and giving each member an opportunity to display his talents. It is a time of learning and playing together.

Two films will also be shown: "Are you Listening?" and "Strengthening the Home." The public is invited to attend.

Refuge for Runaways: Tollfree Phone Number

By Abigail Van Buren

1975 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Because I read in your column about that tollfree number, which allows runaway kids to call to let their parents know they are O.K., I re-established contact with my parents, went home and had the most wonderful Easter in my life. (I'm a 19-year-old boy who dropped out of school and hit the road 15 months ago.)

Will you please run that item again, Abby?

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS DEAR LUCKY: With pleasure: Runaways, dial 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the U.S. and convey a message from you. ("I'm alive, don't worry about me" is typical.)

There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you will be: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you'll be told where you can obtain it for free. No attempt will be made to bring you home, regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and call that tollfree number now. Let somebody know that you are alive. You will sleep better tonight, and so will they.

P.S. This wonderful program originated in Texas and has been adopted by 37 states! It's staffed by volunteers, including some grateful runaways who have come home.

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a very attractive man. We hit it off immediately and I could get serious about him, but he told me something about himself that made me begin to wonder about him. Please don't laugh, because this is serious. He does needle-point!

He is otherwise normal. Do you think I have a problem?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING:

Yes. But the problem is with you, not him. Needlepointing is wonderfully relaxing. It calms the nerves, occupies restless hand, beats smoking and gives one a sense of accomplishment. And neither sex has a monopoly on that!

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with "Red-Faced," who wrote to say that she was embarrassed to watch some of those TV commercials with her boyfriend.

I've been in sales and advertising for over 50 years, and I recently became uneasy watching certain TV commercials with my daughter and son-in-law. I think the media is going out of bounds with some of the products they advertise.

If the "red-faced" young lady will go to the public library and ask for an up-to-date copy of "Advertisers' Register," she will find the names and addresses of all major companies listed with the brand names they produce and the names of their executive personnel.

She should then write a letter to the president of the company telling him why she thinks his advertising is offensive. It will be far more effective than writing to the F.C.C., as you recommended.

I've done this with several products and was amazed at

Annual Plant Sale in Rhinebeck

The Rhinebeck Garden Club will hold its annual plant sale Saturday on the grounds of the Methodist Church, across from the Town Hall on Market Street, Rhinebeck. The sale starts at 9 o'clock sharp, closes at noon. In case of rain, the sale will be held in the parish house. On sale will be seedlings from a river estate, shrubs and plants from famous nurseries, iris, ground covers, hemerocallis (day lilies), perennials, house plants, and old-fashioned moss roses; herbs, vegetable seedlings, material for dried arrangements, containers, flower pots, tools, and many other items.

Club members will be on hand to answer questions. Interested persons are advised to come early for the best bargains as the sale is always a sell-out.

Mrs. Asa F. York, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ottokar Tenopyr, urge all Garden Club members to bring their plants and other contributions to the church grounds Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

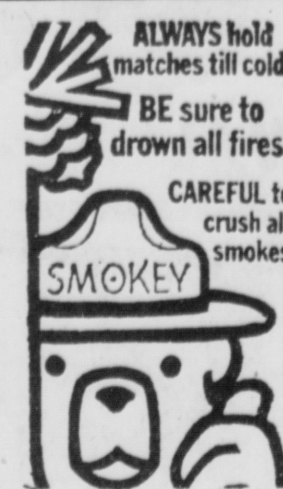

the personal attention I received.

T.W.T.: TEXAN

DEAR T.W.T.: Thanks for the suggestion. Others have written to tell me that writing to the F.C.C. to complain about offensive TV commercials was a waste of time.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Making Homes Safe for Children

CHICAGO, ILL.

A child's world is an open-ended, kaleidoscopic place where a multitude of objects and impressions invade the senses. The freshness of many objects, and the imagination a child brings to the contemplation of them, drives the child toward exploration.

However, this brand of exploration may create dangerous situations. Underwriters Laboratories (UL) recognizing the kinds of scrapes that kids can get into, offers the following advice on child safety.

An old unused refrigerator or freezer lying in your basement or garage is a potential "child trap." It may be come a fortress or a space capsule in an imaginative child's mind, but it doesn't travel anywhere and its construction is airtight. A frantic, trapped child can quickly use up the oxygen supply and suffocate.

This is why a UL listed refrigerator unit is designed to open easily from the inside when the amount of force that can be exerted by a child is applied to the door, enabling the child to escape from a dangerous situation.

If you plan to discard a refrigerator or freezer or store them for future use, follow these suggestions: check with local fire, police, or health officials about ordinances relating to storage of unused units or methods of discarding them; and remove the door and place the refrigerator with the storage compartment opening firmly butted against a wall.

An electric range is another object sure to attract an inquisitive child. He may climb on top and play with the control knobs or accidentally brush against a control en route to an overhead cabinet. If the surface burner is activated the child may be seriously burned.

It's a good idea not to store enticing items in a cabinet above the range and it is also obvious that children should be supervised when in the kitchen. If your child normally gets up before you do, block the kitchen off with a gate or other barrier before going to bed. Dressing your child in close fitting clothes is another precaution against fabric ignition and eventual burns. Finally, UL listed ranges will soon be required to have a control knob that takes two operations to activate. This could make a child's maneuvering of controls more difficult.

Flammable liquids are hazardous to begin with, but in the hands of a child they can become doubly so. Keep all flammable liquids out of their reach—and don't allow them to play with matches or lighters.

Going Bananas Over Dairy Queen

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The four million bananas used during Dairy Queen's annual banana split sale would feed 14,203 monkeys for one full year.

The nation seemed to go "bananas" over Dairy Queen's banana split sale recently, purchasing an estimated four million banana splits during the two-day sale. Approximately one out of every 50 Americans purchased a banana split at their neighborhood Dairy Queen store during the yearly promotion.

Almost 2,800 Dairy Queen and Dairy Queen/Brazier stores participated in the sale.

According to John Hanning,

International Dairy Queen, Inc.'s assistant to the president, the sale was a resounding success. "I've never had so many calls from operators wondering where they could buy more bananas," he said. "This year's banana split sale is by far the most successful we've ever had. Part of the success can be attributed to the pre-sale advertising we did on television, radio and newspapers."

If the banana splits sold during the two-day period were placed end-to-end, they would reach from International Dairy Queen, Inc.'s headquarters in Minneapolis, Minn., to Gary, Ind.—a distance of 475 miles.

Toy Firm Growing By New Marketing

NEW YORK (UPI) —Even in the middle of a recession, a man with energy and ideas can make a business grow spectacularly.

Take Martin B. Abrams, who has brought Mego International Inc. in two and a half years from a humdrum maker of nondescript toys to a firm with sales in the $35 million-$40 million-a-year range, a gain of 125 percent.

He did it by tying his toys to Hollywood, not only such recent Hollywood characters as those from "Planet of the Apes" but to the legendary figures of the Wizard of Oz and the heroes of early TV and radio, Superman, Batman and Robin and the Green Hornet.

It would make a better story to say Marty Abrams, 32, was 100 per cent self-made, but he inherited control of Mego and had the advantage of a degree in marketing from New York University.

His father, David Abrams, still is chairman of the company. Nowadays, however, father stays in Hong Kong supervising the company's production.

"You have to be a maverick to go far and fast in the toy business today," Martin Abrams says, "and you have to work awful hard and enjoy your work."

In catapulting Mego from 300th place to the top 10 in the $3 billion-a-year toy industry, Abrams did a number of unconventional things. For one, he decided if a big mail order house such as Sears, Roebuck could sell toys the year round, so could Mego. Traditionally, small toymakers had depended on the Christmas season for 75 per cent of their business.

But after he had spent money tooling up for his proprietary toys keyed to Hollywood and TV characters, he decided on a tremendous consumer advertising campaign in the August dog days. Competitors scoffed but the sales were so good department stores began stocking up on Mego toys.

Despite his NYU marketing degree, Abrams has little patience with fancy marketing surveys. "The way to find out what kind of toys kids want is to ask your own kids and other people's kids," he says, "and to do that, and get the truth, you have to mingle with kids a lot."

For that reason, he donned a costume and rode on his company's float in the Macy's toy parade with kids last Thanksgiving Day in New York.

Abrams says the American toy industry currently is not very innovative. The industry has become stodgy, he thinks, because too much of it is operated by big diversified companies such as CBS, Quaker Oats, General Mills and Nabisco.

He admits it takes energy more than imagination to build a toy business around famous movie and TV characters. "You have to keep up, though," he insisted. He is now bringing out toy figures of the characters in the popular TV series "The Waltons." He expects they will do as well as the "Planet of the Apes" line, which had $10 million in sales on an initial outlay of $120,000.

Last fall Abrams latched on to the Evel Knievel ballyhoo with a thing called Evel Knievel motorcross—a gadget a youngster can attach to a bike and imagine he's jumping a motorcycle like Evel.

Credit Information System

Kingston Trust Company and Credit Data of the Mid-Hudson, a division of the Credit Bureau of Kingston-Ulster Inc., have jointly announced the installation of the T.R.W. computerized credit reporting system concept at The Bank. By use of a teleprinter unit, The Bank and other credit granters in the Mid-Hudson area can now get instant and current credit information from throughout the nation.

White Collar Graft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The furor over under-the-counter payments made by United Brands and Gulf Oil Corp. to do business in foreign countries ignores the fact that such corruption in domestic business involves far more money, says Jules Kroll.

Kroll is a one-time aide to the late Robert F. Kennedy and an ex-assistant district attorney in New York City who formed a firm a few years ago to combat white collar business crime. He said the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has estimated the annual cost of such crime in the country as high as $40 million.

"The worst thing," Kroll told United Press International, "is that there clearly is some danger this kind of crime will become institutionalized in our society. It takes two to tango; for every bribe or kickback taker there must be a giver."

It is time, he said, for business to call a halt to this corruption and take a firm stand for ethical practices.

Some of the nation's largest companies have been involved in kickback or other corrupt practices by executives or supervisory employees in recent years. Corruption already is institutionalized in the construction industry, largely with public servants the chief beneficiaries, Kroll said. In New York, he said, it is becoming accepted practice in the printing business.

The ways in which practices are executed sometimes are surprising, Kroll said. "The management of a conglomerate was convinced its purchasing director was getting kickbacks but couldn't trace them until a disgruntled employee of one of the vendors squealed. It turned out the purchasing director kept stationery of the vendors in his office. His secretary, who also was his mistress, typed up the vendors' bids. The prices appeared to be reasonable. But when the goods actually were shipped there were small differences in quality or short counts. These seemed insignificant but on a volume of $160 million a year they mounted up. The vendors deposited the kickbacks directly in the purchasing director's Swiss bank account."

Another purchasing director cleaned up an estimated $150,000 in 12 months by running an outside consulting firm, all of whose clients turned out to be vendors to his employer.

The director of a magazine's direct mail promotions was caught cheating by gross overcharges on paper, postage and other items because, on a salary of $19,000 a year, he was keeping a mistress in an expensive apartment in addition to his wife and a suburban home. The magazine fired him but wouldn't prosecute.

One unusual $300,000 kickback case solved by the Kroll firm involved a small manufacturer who sold his company for stock to a bigger firm but was retained to run it on salary. When the long bear market depressed the value of the stock he had obtained, the manager and erstwhile owner began exacting kickbacks from suppliers "to recoup my investment" as he explained. It took him three years to accumulate the $300,000 that way. Then he was caught.

Kroll said although cash is the medium of most corrupt business payments, there are others, such as vacations on the cuff, unlimited use of credit cards, interest-free loans, valuable free goods in the guise of samples, lavish gift certificates and even rigged golf matches or card games in which the fellow on the take is permitted to win a sizable sure-thing bet.

Local Realtors Present At National Seminar

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Kenneth E. Hyatt, executive officer of the Ulster County Board of Realtors and the Multiple Listing Service and Sylvia Snowden, recording secretary of the Ulster County Board of Realtors and vice president of the Multiple Listing Service have returned from the 32nd Annual Seminar of Board of Realtors Administration, conducted by the Executive Officers Committee of the National Association of Realtors.

The seminar was held recently at The Adams Hotel in Phoenix, Ariz. and was attended by executive officers of state Realtor Associations, local board of Realtors and their staff assistants.

Dean Jerry Kraus of San Diego, Calif., noted that "the 1975 seminar was a worthwhile fulfilling, professional and educational experience." The seminar included an undergraduate program in basic information for first-year students. It also offered a graduate program of 10 electives designed to cover the areas of greatest concern to Realtors and executive officers.

By repeating the electives on two consecutive days, all graduate students had the opportunity to participate in as many as their schedule allowed. Kraus noted that the Executive Officers Seminar is unique to the National Association of Realtors.

"We are the only trade association which provides executive officers with the opportunity to acquire basic information, professional enrichment, advanced training and the means to keep abreast of changing times and serve their members," Kraus said.

Students received latest information concerning National Association programs and objectives in an update session conducted by National Association President Art S. Leitch, Executive Vice-President H. Jackson Pontius, Administrative Vice President William R. Magel, and General Counsel William D. North.

The session featured a question-and-answer period off free discussion of mutual interests and goals. The graduate program included a wide range of specialized topics ranging from civil rights to personal investments.

The seminar also featured a mini-theatre with continuous running of films on land use, management, office procedures, real estate sales and other pertinent topics.

Mrs. Battistoni Honored

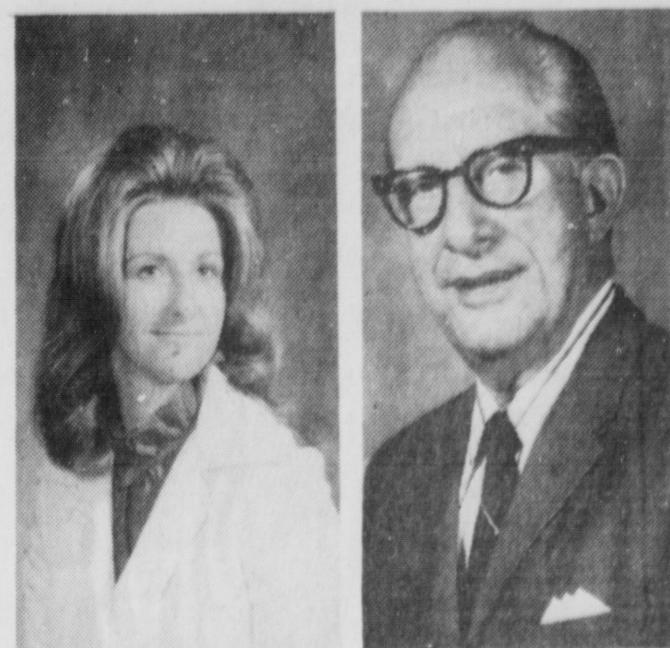

The Dutchess County Board of Realtors recently held its annual Award Dinner at the Camelot Inn in Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Helen Battistoni of Rhinebeck received the Realtor of the Year Award. This award is voted annually by the membership to honor a Realtor for his contribution and services on local, state and national level.

As president of the Dutchess County Board of Realtors for a second one year term, Mrs. Battistoni has worked especially hard to institute the Realtor Associate Program, which has doubled its membership.

A resident of northern Dutchess all her life, Mrs. Battistoni owns a real estate firm with headquarters in Rhinebeck, and branch offices in Kingston, Red Hook, Stan-fordville, Pine Plains and Eliz-aville.

For the first time this year, through the efforts of the Make America Better Program, the board of Realtors awarded a plaque to the Rhinebeck Savings Bank for their efforts in creating the new Rhinebeck Village Plaza.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR DOBRYNIN AWAITS DESTROYER BOYKIY

Bicentennial Boston Hosts Detente Visitors

BOSTON (UPI) — Youthful Russian sailors from the first Soviet warships to tie up in an American port since World War II are taking advantage of detente to join the tourist throngs in Bicentennial Boston.

The ribboned sailors from the destroyers Boykiy and Zhguchiy toured Boston's Freedom Trail after welcoming ceremonies featuring a 21-gun salute and greetings from Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and U.S. Vice Admiral Stanfield Turner.

They also visited Boston University Medical School, frolicked with cameras in front of the Boston Public Library, and listened to a talk by the rector of the Old North Church.

They were treated to a reception with sailors from the USS Albany and the Naval Air Station at South Weymouth.

The two Russian warships steamed into Boston Harbor under a 21-gun salute at the same time two American destroyers were receiving a similar welcome in Leningrad.

On deck and later on the streets of Boston, the young Soviet sailors were eager and jovial as they tested fledgling English with passersby and gaily snapped pictures of themselves.

Most of the youths, who said their average age was 19, were eager to find out about "the mood of American youth" and "the ordinary working man."

Before leaving Saturday, they will be accompanied by American sailors on more tours of Boston, visits to the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus, and will go to a concert and a Boston Red Sox baseball game.

"We all live under one sun," said one Russian sailor. He said he had no preconceptions about the United States, but cited "Lord of the Flies" and "The New Centurions" as examples of American films he has seen.

Golden Age of Wine

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Omar Khayam assembled a loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and his favorite lady for an evening's pleasures, he was repeating a ritual as old as civilization.

But he, too, might have been astounded four years ago, on May 26, 1971, when a young Boston liquor store owner paid $5,000 for a bottle of 1846 Chateau Lafite Rothschild.

The record price astonished even Alexander McNally, the wine sleuth who travels the world looking for old and exotic vintages to be offered at Heublein's auction of fine wines. McNally has explored some of the world's most jealously guarded wine cellars, crypts, tombs and vaults to assemble rare vintages for the sales.

This year's sale is in New York, at the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, on Wednesday, May 28.

More than 10,000 persons are invited to the annual auction. Only a fraction of these show up. To get in all one needs to do is to purchase the $10 catalog. Bids are taken by telephone, letter, telegraph or cable.

Wine lovers from around the country will get a chance to taste some of the wines offered in this year's sale. Preview tastings are set for Friday, May 16, at Ceasars Palace Hotel in Las Vegas; Wednesday, May 21, at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Denver; and Tuesday, May 27, the day before the sale, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

McNally says there is an 8020 chance that the old wine will still be good.

"There is no deadline for good red wine, be it a fine Bordeaux or a good California Cabernet," McNally said.

McNally said the Golden Age of wine is now.

"Just as there could be no great pianists before the 19th Century because there were no pianos, so the wines of the past could not have been as great as those now because we didn't have the technology until now," he said.

"I look forward to an unprecedented flow of fine wines for the next quarter century."

A sample of the wines in this year's sale:

—Sixteen bottles of Bordeaux wine from the years 1858 to 1878, produced before European vineyards were destroyed by phylloxera, then reconstituted with roots from American vines. One bottle, an 1878 Mouton Rothschild, is expected to sell for $1,200 to $1,300.

—A 1934 Chateau Gruaud-Larose and 1949 Chateau Talbot from the personal collection of Jean-Georges Cordier, grandson of the founders of the House of Cordier and current head of the firm.

—1920 to 1961 Bordeaux and Burgundy, and 1815 to 1840 Madeira from the New Hampshire cellar of Walter Cabot Paine, publisher of Valley News, daily paper for upper New England.

—Several classic clarets from the 1950s dedicated to Ruth Ellen Church, former food editor of The Chicago Tribune.

—A large number of California wines from Beaulieu and Inglenook vineyards, from 1906 to 1973.

THE INDIANS ON PARADE

Kingston Indians Corps Presents Pow Wow Preview

KINGSTON Dates have been set for the Seventh Annual Pow Wow Preview and the Eleventh Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions, sponsored by the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps and the Troop 12 Indians.

Seven corps are set to compete in the Pow Wow Preview, slated for June 7 at Dietz Stadium. Included among the competitors will be the Poughkeepsie Pacers, Wayne (N. J.) Monarchs, New York City Warriors, Schuylkill Haven (Pa.) Belvederees, Wood Ridge C. W. Townsman (N. J.), Greenwood Lake Lakers and the Secaucus (N. J.) Meadowlarks.

The winner of the Pow Wow Preview will also compete in the Pow Wow of Junior Champions slated for July 20, also at Dietz Stadium.

Stiff competition is expected from the defending champion Hawthorne Muchachos, who are seeking their third consecutive title. A victory for the Muchachos will earn them the Edward Kwasnik Memorial Trophy.

Others seeking the Pow Wow title will be the Auburn Purple Lancers, Garfield (N. J.) Cadets, Revere (Mass.) 27th Lancers, and the Elizabeth (N. J.) Polish Falcon Cadets.

As host corps, the Kingston Indians and Troop 12 Indians will perform at both events, slated to get underway at 7 p. m.

Reserve tickets for the Preview are available at the Kingston Music Enter, Abrams Music Store, Broadway News Shop, Lou's Deli, and Shapiro's in Kingston, Port Ewen Pharmacy and Gracie's

Drive-in in Port Ewen, and from Smith's Hardware in Saugerties. Tickets for either contest are available by mail.

AREA NEWS TODAY

Different View of Hurley Problem

HURLEY While the Kingston Consolidated School District continues to take steps to repair the defective chlorination treatment units at four of its schools, there is some opinion that the situation at one of the facilities is not as serious as first believed.

School district officials maintained Tuesday that effluent from the Hurley Elementary School is being accepted into a nearby leaching field, eliminating—for the time being, at least—the need for chlorination treatment. As a result, they contend untreated sewage from the school is not reaching the nearby Esopus Creek.

But that is an assumption with which an official of the Ulster County Health Department does not necessarily agree.

Four school district officials, accompanied by a Freeman reporter, inspected the chlorination unit at the Hurley school on Tuesday. It was pointed out that a pipe from the leaching field to the well in the chlorination building was dry (indicating that the field was not passing waste water into the unit) and that the discharge pipe from the chlorination building to a small gully was not emptying any water. It was also noted that the water in the chlorination well did not carry an odor of sewage, indicating that it had been treated by natural means before reaching the chlorination unit.

According to Dr. Richard C. Schleiter, associate superintendent for business management, effluent from the Hurley School is first passed into a holding tank, where solid and liquid wastes are separated. The solid wastes collect in the tank; the liquid wastes flow into the leaching beds. Under normal circumstances, bacteria in the waste water is filtered as the water seeps through the sand and gravel field; when the field becomes saturated, the water passes into the chlorination well, where it is treated with chlorine before being discharged on the surface of the ground.

Schleiter said Tuesday that it is evident that the leaching field is currently accepting waste water from the school; that there is no need for chlorination treatment because the bacteria is removed by natural means.

The same situation now exists at the Zena Elementary School, and has been acknowledged by health department officials. However, Dave Ryder, sanitary engineer with the health department, said Tuesday that he isn't convinced that the situation at Hurley is identical to Zena.

Ryder said that when he inspected the Hurley site last week there were, in fact, discharges from the chlorination unit which had not been properly treated. He said, also, that the pipe from the building to the gully is not necessarily the point of discharge, especially if the pipe is broken at some point where it runs underground. And he noted that the fact that there is water in the chlorination well could indicate that the leaching field is not accepting all the waste water.

Ryder said he will inspect the site again to determine if his initial assessment was correct. In the meantime, the chlorination unit at the Zena school has been moved to Hurley to accomplish any treatment that may be required.

Letters Attack County Role

KINGSTON Mrs. Gloria Yerkovich, who has apparently lost a five-month battle to persuade federal authorities to join in the search for her abducted six-year-old daughter, has written separate letters to Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn and District Attorney Francis J. Vogt criticizing Ulster County's role in the affair.

In her letter to Vogt, Mrs. Yerkovich said that she will attempt to file suit against Ulster County if "satisfactory arrangements" are not made to recover her daughter, Joanna. She said she will seek damages for Joanna's life, as well as the recovery of any funds the family is forced to spend to locate the child.

Mrs. Yerkovich, who doesn't believe that Vogt, in his capacity as district attorney, has done all he could to help recover Joanna, wrote: "... it seems to me against all principles of our judicial system—our government—that a court order can be enforced on one side and not on the other side. Law enforcement hands are thrown up in impotency while the criminal is free to perpetuate his heinous crime against an innocent child."

And in a portion of the letter directed to Vogt personally, she states, "Almost five months have passed since she (Joanna) has played with her friends; since she has danced with her classmates; since she has slept in her own bed and played in her room. If you know anything about children, then you might have a little appreciation for the hell she is suffering at the hands of Ulster County."

Although Mr. and Mrs. Yerkovich have been extremely critical of county officials for not immediately appropriating funds for the search for Pierce and Joanna, they reserve their most bitter criticisms for Judge Elwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Yerkovich believe that Elwyn's decision to grant Pierce visitation rights contributed directly to Joanna's abduction. In her letter to Elwyn, Mrs. Yerkovich wrote:

"Never is it apparent that you acted in the best interest of my daughter, Joanna, as you are charged to under the Family Court Act. You granted Franklin Pierce the most liberal visitation rights ever granted in the State Of New York to an illegitimate father. You knew Franklin Pierce had never contributed a penny of child support to my daughter, and you didn't see fit to order him to pay any. Neither did you see fit to require Franklin Pierce to post a bond when you ordered that my little girl be forced from her home at Christmas time. But, Judge Elwyn, you were 'impressed with his financial ability'."

Housing Programs Favored By Groups

KINGSTON The Ulster County Community Action Committee task force on Community Development (UCCAC) and its Citizen's Ad Hoc Committee has recommended the city redirect $475,000 it had planned to spend for recreation purposes into housing programs.

The UCCAC groups met with the Community Development Advisory Council and Mayor Francis R. Koenig Tuesday night at city hall. Also attending were City Planner Robert E. Pritchard and Ralph Marallo, newly appointed executive director of the city's $5.4 million Community Development Program.

UCCAC's presentation formalized its criticisms of the city's plans to spend $375,000 for the "renovation and conversion" of the auditorium into a midtown neighborhood center along with the city's plans to spend $100,000 for the construction of a sports complex at the city landfill at Kingston Point.

The committee recommended that the auditorium plan be delayed for at least a year until it could be integrated into an overall Central Broadway plan.

The committee also suggested that the city did not have an alternative landfill site for Kingston Point at this time and probably would not have one this year. Thus, they recommended that money be shifted into housing.

The bulk of the money under the UCCAC revision, $300,000 would go into what its report described as a "rehabilitation loan program for residential/commercial properties implementation."

LWV Event

ELLENVILLE More than 300 delegates from all over New York State signed in on the registration line Tuesday at the Nevele Hotel in Ellenville, as the League of Women Voters of Mid-Ulster County began hosting the three-day 36th annual convention of the state LWV.

Hospitality-badged workers from Kingston-Hurley-Woodstock, New Paltz and Poughkeepsie LWV groups mingled with delegates from Rochester, Long Island and points in between, as information kits were distributed; exhibits were set up; and lunch, dinner and roundtable sessions were held.

The scope of the convention is vast. At the opening session yesterday, delegates were welcomed by Dorothy Vilches of Hurley, president of the Mid-Ulster County LWV, and Peter J. Savago of New Paltz, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature. Following the seating of Dianne Craig of Kingston, convention chairperson, delegates settled into a work session that included a presentation of the program that would come up for adoption by voting today.

While the voting on the budget and candidates for state office is expected to run smoothly in today's second session, some debate on the state program is predicted.

Polls will be open all day today at the Nevele for voting, and delegates will hear a number of reports, including two on environmental quality and human resources (housing and welfare).

The highlight of the three-day convention for the hundreds attending, however, will come tonight at a gala cocktail party and banquet. Delegates will meet outgoing state LWV president Ruth Robbins of Larchmont and incoming state president Natacha Dykman of Rochester. Jetting in from Green Bay, Wisc., will be Ruth Clusen, president of the LWV of the United States, who will be the main speaker at the banquet.

The closing session tomorrow (Thursday) will deal mostly with credentials and elections committee reports, program direction and other business.

New Paltz Campus Robbery

NEW PALTZ

Police are seeking two pistol-toting black males who entered a dormitory room on the campus of the State University College at New Paltz Tuesday evening and robbed four students in the room, making off with some $350.

Authorities said the robbery occurred in Deyo Hall at about 5:15 p.m.

The victims were identified as Harmon and Nina Karasick, who reside in the room where the robbery occurred, and Ronnie Brown and Bruce Wych. Brown and Wych had gone to the room to purchase a stereo from the Karasick couple, police were told.

The $350 taken was Brown's according to police.

State police said one of the holdup men was about 6 feet 4 and the other was about 6 feet 6. Both wore stocking masks and brandished silver colored handguns. Police said it is not known how the pair fled the scene.

Smith Blasts Koenig

KINGSTON

Alderman Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward), minority leader of the Common Council, today accused Mayor Francis R. Koenig of making "misleading statements" in regard to city taxes as compared to Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

The article in Tuesday's Freeman detailed a report by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt which stated Kingston ranks 30th in taxes in the state as compared to Newburgh's No. 1 ranking and Poughkeepsie's No. 3. (Koenig was not interviewed.)

Smith was also critical of the mayor for not protesting the reduction in the city's equalization rate from 29 to 27 which could result in a $5 per thousand increase in school taxes.

"At a time when Mayor Beame of New York is running all over to Washington, Albany and any other place where someone will listen, you, Mr. Mayor, for the third year in a row, chose not to send a representative from our city to Albany for equalization hearings," Smith said.

"With a governor and an assemblyman of the same political persuasion, you didn't even attempt to present the case for the city of Kingston. How does the state know we are not satisfied with our equalization rate, Mr. Mayor?" Smith asked.

Sunoco Blaze Doused

KINGSTON

City firemen were called out to the Colonial Sunoco Service Station, 327 Broadway, Tuesday night at about 6:15 p.m. when a small fire broke out in a gas pump that had been struck by a car.

The blaze was out on arrival of the fire department, having been doused by workers at the service station.

Bob Wills Dies, 70, Began Country Swing

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Ray Benson, the lead singer for a group called Asleep at the Wheel, walked to the microphone of the Longhorn Ballroom Tuesday night and told the 1,500 persons who came to pay tribute to Bob Wills there was no reason for sadness.

"We're going to play Bob Wills' music, just like we always do," Benson said in introducing his group, which plays the country swing music Wills originated 30 years ago. "We don't want any sadness here, we want everybody to be happy, because Bob played happy music and we want everybody dancing. Bob Wills would have wanted it that way."

Bob Wills, the man Merle Haggard called "The best damn fiddle player in the whole wide world," died at 1:05 p.m. Tuesday of bronchial pneumonia. He was 70.

He died at the Kent Nursing Home where he had been confined the last year, completely unable to communicate after suffering his second stroke in 1973, according to a spokesman for the nursing home. He was in a coma the last two months and died without regaining consciousness.

His death came at a time when his music, some of it recorded as long ago as 1935, was enjoying its biggest popularity in his home state.

Haggard recorded an album of Bob Wills songs and donated his talents as a lead singer on Wills' last album, "For the Last Time," recorded in Dallas in 1973. Willie Nelson includes Wills' songs in his live performances and Waylon Jennings wrote a tribute to him called "Bob Wills Is Still The King."

The songs Wills made famous with his bands, the Lightcrust Doughboys and later the Texas Playboys, are still played from the plush ballrooms of New York to the small country clubs of Bakersfield, Calif. Songs like "San Antonio Rose," "Faded Love," "Take Me Back to Tulsa," and "Stay All Night, Stay A Little Longer."

"I would say he probably performed before more people than any other entertainer in the business and that includes the Beatles," Nashville record producer Tommy Allsup said.

"This is the man who originated the Nashville music," the late Tex Ritter said in 1968 when Wills was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Wills, himself, doubted he would ever be inducted into the hall. "I play western music, not country music," he told a friend who drove him to the Ryman Auditorium, the original home of the Grand Ole Opry, in Nashville.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Christina Brown, express our sincere thanks and gratitude to the many concerned friends, patrons and neighbors, the entire staff of Benedictine Hospital, the visiting clergymen, the expert care of her Doctors and special duty Nurses, during her illness.

We would like to acknowledge each individual personally but the overwhelming response of sympathy to our bereavement makes this impossible.

We are grateful to all of you who have contributed support in any way during our difficult days.

One for Green Haven

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge has ruled that Green Haven prison in Dutchess County must accept one of three Black Liberation Army convicted police killers it refused to admit, but that the other two should be returned to California.

Authorities at the state correctional facility at Stormville Tuesday turned back an armed convoy carrying B.L.A. members Albert Washington, Anthony Bottom and Herman Bell, requiring their return to Rikers Island.

A spokesman for the city Department of Correction said state prison officials argued that California had a prior claim on the men.

The prison was told later in the day it would have to accept Bell.

Meanwhile, authorities were trying to determine where the three B.L.A. men got jailbreak equipment — knives, explosives, lockpicks and chemical Mace — which was found in their possession Monday just minutes after they had been sentenced in Manhattan Supreme Court for the 1971 murders of police officers Waverly Jones and Joseph Piagentini.

Courthouse guards said the three did not have the equipment when they went into the courtroom, indicating that it was smuggled to them sometime during the sentencing process.

When Green Haven refused the B.L.A. members admission, City Correction Commissioner Benjamin J. Malcolm took up the matter with Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Greenfield, who sentenced them to 25 years to life.

Mayone, Snyder Speak To Saugerties GOP

SAUGERTIES — Ulster County Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone and County Legislator Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1) will be the guest speakers at Thursday's Town of Saugerties Republican Club meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m. at Doggie's Restaurant, Route 32.

Mayone, who was elected last November, previously served as investigator for the Ulster County District Attorney's Office, county investigator and deputy sheriff. Born in the Town of Saugerties, Mayone served as Republican committeeman in the town for 16 years and is currently a member of the Woodstock Republican Club.

Snyder is presently serving his fourth term in the county legislature, and has served as majority leader since 1972. He is chairman of the legislature's Sheriff's Committee and is a member of the Mid-Hudson Crime Control Planning Board.

All enrolled Republicans, club members and their guests are invited to attend Thursday's meeting. Various committee reports are included on the agenda.

Police Week Proclaimed

Mayor Francis R. Koenig (L) presents Kingston Police Chief Julius Glassman with a copy of a proclamation the mayor signed recently establishing this week as Police Week in the city. The mayor called on the public to "show our sincere appreciation" for the work of the police department during this week in particular. Koenig described the police officers as "guardians of life and property (and) defenders of the individual right to be free men." (Freeman photo)

Booklet of Facts

Free copies of the New York State Department of Commerce booklet on the state are available to high school and college students and to teachers.

Publication "New York, the Empire State" gives facts and figures about the state. Some samples: Hudson River is 306 miles long; largest lake is Oneida at 79.8 square miles; highest falls, Taughannock at 215 feet; highest mountain, Mount Marcy, 5,344 feet; tallest building, the World Trade Center at 1,350 feet.

The address is: New York State Department of Commerce, 99 Washington Avenue, Albany, N.Y. 12245.

Poker World Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The last man to rise from the table in the World Series of Poker will have raked in $210,000. The first man up was "Cowboy" Smith, who lost his $10,000 stake in less than half an hour.

The usual colorful congregation of incongruous characters set out once again Tuesday night on the series of night-long games that are partly meant to pick a champion poker player and partly to publicize the locale, the Horseshoe Casino.

Spectators were backed up seven deep behind velvet ropes as 21 players sat down at three tables in the Old West saloon-style card room Tuesday night to open play.

Under the rules of the game, each player puts up $10,000. When he loses that, he is out.

No player is allowed to cash in his chips until one man has the whole $210,000 pot. If past games are any indication, that may take the rest of the week.

After six hours and at least 200 fast-paced hands of "hold 'em," a poker variety popular in the Southwest, Jesse Alto led, holding $23,875. Even by the standards of the league, Alto has an unusual background. He was born in Mexico of Lebanese parents, raised in Israel and now lives in Houston.

Four of the top five players in the first round were Texans, all but Roger Reid, identified as "a guy from the Middle West someplace," who was second with $22,525.

In third place was Crandall Addington, a San Antonio businessman with a reputation as the fanciest dressing high stakes poker player in the country. Other players say he never wears a suit into more than one game, and once played for five straight days and nights without unbuttoning his jacket or loosening the knot in his tie.

True to his legend, Addington raked in $16,650 Tuesday night and early this morning without loosening the knot of his beige silk tie, custom made to match his beige silk shirt and beige silk western style suit with contrasting blue stitching.

Malpractice Topic At Chamber Breakfast

KINGSTON

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, chief of surgery at Benedictine Hospital, will discuss the medical malpractice insurance crisis at Tuesday's breakfast meeting of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce.

Gorman will discuss the current dilemma over malpractice insurance coverage, and will detail past situations, the current problems and possible future actions.

"This is another effort by the Chamber," said Executive Vice President Presient Len Cane, "to do our best to keep Ulster County residents aware of what's going on in various areas."

The breakfast meeting will begin at 7:45 a.m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and is open to Chamber members and the general public. Reservations can be made by calling the chamber office no later than Monday morning.

Y-Sponsored Dance

The Leaders Club of the YMCA of Ulster County will sponsor a junior high school dance Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the "Y's" Upper Gym on Broadway. The dance will be open to students in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades only (both members and non-members of the "Y") and music will be provided by Crystal Blue. There will be an admission charge.

NOTICE OF PUBLICATION OF SUMMARY OF GRANT APPLICATION OF THE COUNTY OF ULSTER AS PRIME SPONSOR FOR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE UNDER TITLE I OF THE COMPREHENSIVE EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ACT OF 1973.

Pursuant to the requirements of the U.S. Department of Labor rules and regulation for grant application under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, the County of Ulster has prepared the following summary of its application for publication at the time of its submission.

The County of Ulster is seeking financial assistance under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 in order to be able to provide employment and job opportunities for unemployed, under employed and economically disadvantaged residents of the County of Ulster who have the greatest need for assistance in ultimately securing a job which pays a living wage.

The County of Ulster is defined as follows, bordered on the east by the Hudson River, on the north by Greene County, on the west by Delaware and Sullivan Counties, and on the south by Orange County.

Against a planning allocation by the U.S. Department of Labor of $595,852 for program year 1976, the County of Ulster has submitted its application for financial assistance which calls for:

$21,316 to employ an Employment Inverviewer/Rural Outreach person to conduct office hours in the Towns of Wawarsing and New Paltz one day per week. In the town of Saugerties two days per week and in the City of Kingston one day per week. A total of approximately 75 persons will be served and at least 50 direct job placements will be realized. $358,889 for adult work experience programs to provide wages and services to 60 persons who need to establish work habits and gain general skills to become better equipped to compete for available jobs.

$176,000 for youth work experience programs to provide wages and services to 82 disadvantaged youth, aged 16-22, to encourage them to remain in school or resume their schooling if they have dropped out.

$40,943 to provide a central Manpower Office Staff to administer, monitor and evaluate all Comprehensive Employment and Training Act programs.

It is anticipated that a total of 1,000 persons will receive some type of service from the Title I program. This service will include intake, assessment and job referral. It is expected that at least 400 of those individuals served will be enrolled in Title I activities to include On-the-Job Training, Adult and Youth Work Experience programs and/or classroom training. Of those directly enrolled, it is expected that 150 will be placed in unsubsidized employment following training.

It is expected that the efforts of the Job Development Unit and the Employment Service Intervention will result in the direct placement of 100 other persons. The remainder, or 500, will be referred for other services including vocational rehabilitation, testing, counseling or other Manpower related services.

KINGSTON HOSPITAL REGISTERED NURSES

Nurses for part-time weekend shifts. Must have hospital experience, all shifts available. Apply in person only Personnel Dept.

Free with every Chase car loan of $2,000 or more.

There may not be anything special about giving you a car loan. But there is something a little special when one bank, Chase, goes out of its way to give you something free with a car loan.

An emergency kit that contains an aerosol fire extinguisher, good for all types of small fires, even electrical, oil or grease.

An aerosol tire inflator, with a latex sealer that inflates and seals flat tires in less than a minute.

An emergency blinker with a large suction cup base that you can position on your car top or at roadside (batteries not included).

A high-intensity spotlight with a 12-foot cord that plugs into your cigarette lighter.

Eight-foot booster cables. Six-foot gas siphon pump. A first-aid kit complete with a 25-page first-aid book.

All in a handsome luggage-like carrying case.

You get the Chase Highway Emergency Kit when you get your money.

Just sign up for a car loan before June 30, 1975 and Chase will reserve the money for up to one hundred days, at no charge, so you can shop around for a good deal on a new or late model used car.

As soon as you find the car, you get your money and your emergency kit.

If you're an electrician, a salesman, a nurse or anybody looking for a practical free gift with your car loan, look into your nearest Chase branch. Who knows? You might even open a practical Chase checking account.

Chase Manhattan Bank of the Mid-Hudson, N.A. Branches in Arthursburg, Monroe, Poughkeepsie (at South Hills Mall and Main Mall), Bardonia, Nanpanoch and Saugerties (at Main Street and Simmons Plaza). Member F.D.I.C.

SALES PERSONS

SALESWOMEN

If you are interested in a rewarding sales career we invite you to investigate the position available in Southern N.Y.

The Munich Corporation has a broad line of maintenance oriented products in the machinery, agricultural, building care, and turf maintenance markets.

We offer a full fringe benefit package that includes:

- HOSPITALIZATION, MAJOR MEDICAL, LIFE INSURANCE, PAID HOLIDAYS AND VACATIONS, CREDIT UNION
- AN INCOME PROTECTION PLAN IS AVAILABLE TO QUALIFIED PERSONNEL.

There is literally no ceiling on your earnings. Munich pays a substantial draw, with programmed merit increases, against a liberal commission schedule.

You work in a contract protected territory with no house accounts or split commission set-ups. Our program includes a thorough long term training schedule.

Interviews will be held in Kingston at the Holiday Inn, 503 Washington Ave. on May 15. Call Mr. Wall Carlson between 1 and 3 p.m. on Thursday afternoon to make an appointment for a personal interview. The phone number is 914-338-0400.

 ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 A situation having a direct influence upon family resources is shaping up beneficially. Some of the reasons are into yet visible.

 TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You're going to have some good news to share with an enthusiastic friend, who'll be as happy as you are.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your work at this time will pay more handsome dividends than usual. If the boss asks you to take on his pet project, don't hesitate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Much of value can be accomplished today if you ally yourself with the proper team-mate—one who works well and whose aims match yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll feel your best today if you do things which require some physical exertion. A good time to pick up that mild exercise program.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have added charisma today. Others will be eager to be in your company and to do things to make your life more pleasant.

BEAUTY: (Q.) A new girl moved to my street. She is really beautiful but I'm too scared to go over and talk to her, because she might not like me too well. I would like to get your advice on what to do.

Coward in Connecticut
 (A.) Beautiful girls like boys just as much as other girls do. But some beautiful girls are very lonely because boys are afraid of them. The boys think that anyone so stunning to look at must have more dates than she can handle. This is often not the case.

Do not be defeated by this girl's appearance. Make friends with her just as you would with any other girl. I am confident that she will welcome your attention, and your friendship might grow into something worthwhile.

DIVORCE: (Q.) What can a teen-age girl do if she thinks her parents are getting a divorce?

Worried in Indiana.
 (A) She can talk to her parents, together and separately, about how she feels and what she thinks.

In the separate talks, however, she should not tell one parent one thing and the other parent something different. This could lead to misunderstanding and add to the trouble that is already present.

She should also accept the fact that her parents must do the deciding about whether to get a divorce or not. She cannot decide for them.

State Senate Panel Gives Overwhelming Approval to ERA

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Only the State Senate now stands between the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the state constitution and the voters.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, by a 14-1 vote Tuesday, reported the measure to the full house. Committee Chairman Bernard G. Gordon's office said debate would probably begin next Wednesday.

It has already been approved this year by the Democrat-dominated Assembly and, if passed by the Republican-controlled Senate, will go before voters this fall.

The only vote to kill the proposal was cast by Sen. John D. Calandra, R-Bronx. He expressed surprise over the margin of the vote, but predicted the full Senate would pass it.

The 15-member committee voted before intense gazes in a hearing room packed with mostly female supporters and opponents of the measure. Sen. John J. Marchi voted in absentia.

Gordon, a Peekskill Republican, said the vote would be much closer on the Senate floor because several senators voted "yes" because they "felt the issue should be fully aired on the floor of the Senate" rather than bottled up in committee.

He would not say how he planned to vote on the floor.

Sen. Fred J. Eckert of Rochester, who is not a committee member, has said he will offer an amendment from the floor. If adopted, it would delay sending the ERA to the voters for at least three years.

Both houses of two separately elected legislatures must approve an amendment before it can go to the voters.

A federal ERA, which needs several more states' approval to become part of the Constitution, has already been approved by New York.

Calandra said he voted to kill the amendment because, "I think this gives no rights to women that they don't already have."

"There may be 500 laws that might be affected which we don't know anything about, he said. "We as legislators don't know the impact right now. They're asking us to palm off our obligation and put it to the people."

"I was totally surprised" by the vote, Calandra said. "I thought for sure we had five or six votes. I predict it will pass in the Senate."

After the committee's vote, Mrs. Annette Stern, a spokeswoman for Operation Wake Up, an anti-ERA lobbying group, told a news conference the amendment was "a serious threat to the integrity, dignity and meaning of marriage and family life."

The group distributed apple pies, symbolizing "mother, home and family," to various senators.

MD Strike May Be Statewide

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The two-week doctors strike over soaring malpractice rates was poised to break open across California today.

The 10,000-member Los Angeles County Medical Association will hold a meeting to-night and there were indications the strike could spread to much of Southern California early next week. In addition, there were reports that doctors in Long Beach might go out even sooner.

In Northern California, San Mateo County anesthesiologists, who started a slowdown Monday, said elective surgery would continue for the rest of this week, then terminate. They said they would administer anesthetics only in life-and-death situations.

Doctors in Sonoma and Monterey counties joined striking colleagues in seven other Northern California counties Tuesday.

About 400 San Francisco nurses and orderlies, many of them out of work because of slowdowns in hospitals, rallied outside the state Capitol in Sacramento Tuesday and then moved to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's outer office to confer with him. They want him to call a special legislative session on the issue.

"Before any special session is called I want a public agenda laid out," Brown told the the angry hospital workers. "I want to make sure the parties are going to accept what they might not want to accept."

A spokesman for the workers said some 3,000 have been laid off and, "if something is not done quickly, we feel that all our jobs — and the health care of San Francisco — will be in jeopardy." Another 5,500 workers are on notice of possible unemployment.

But Robert E. Cartright, president of the 25,000-member Association of Trial Lawyers of America, branded the strike as part of "a multimillion-dollar propaganda campaign."

Cartright said "the cause of the medical malpractice crisis is malpractice on the part of the doctors and, if they want to eliminate the premium problem, they should eliminate the malpractice."

He said a federal study told the doctors two years ago what to do to avoid problems, making these points:

—The doctors should "eliminate two million unnecessary operations annually."

—They should police incompetency in their own profession.

—An injury prevention program should be instituted immediately because most of the mishaps are "preventable," especially with the consultation of experts.

In addition, said Cartright, "We need more doctors and nurses because they're all too rushed and this helps them make mistakes."
